Town meeting exceeds levy limit

by Arlene Surprenant
With barely a quorum and discussion figuratively "going to the dogs," special town meeting voters in Wilmington took action on one article Monday which forced the budget to exceed the levy limit by $89,353.

In just over an hour, voters agreed to raise $210,000 for the first year debt service for the $1.25 high school renovation bond a figure exempt from the levy limit. They also approved an additional $34,206 to bring the town's Shawsheen Tech assessment up to $749,000 and went along with a request to increase the dog officer's salary by $9,212.

As expected, four other articles were either withdrawn or passed over. Other budget requests were not brought up at this time, said Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, because expected state aid from the Senate will not be forthcoming to "any great degree."

Despite concerns by Finance Committee Chairman Mark Lutz that funding requests were bringing the town "further over the levy limit," residents seemed to feel "obligated" to up the Tech figure and agreed to increase the dog officer's salary because most of the funds were available through kennel fees, fines and other monies generated by the job.

"Why spend anything when we're this far over the levy limit?" asked Lutz, adding that "there's no reason or logic behind that." The feeling was echoed by Selectman Rocco DePasquale, who wanted to know where the money would come from.

"It's a risk we're taking," admitted Stapczynski, adding that if, at the end of the fiscal year, no more state aid is available, voters would have to come back to another town meeting and cut approved budget items.

Most of the discussion of the evening, however, centered around new dog officer Ellen Webster and a move by Town Crier editor Fred Neilson to make the position full time rather than on a contractual basis.

The contractual post has "absolutely no benefits," said Neilson as he pointed out should Webster sustain on the job injuries she would not be covered by insurance. He was backed by a steady stream of residents who claimed Webster is doing "a tremendous job" and "deserves what she can get."

"I think it's extremely unfair to expect someone to be on call 24 hours a day and not to have benefits," said one vocal resident.

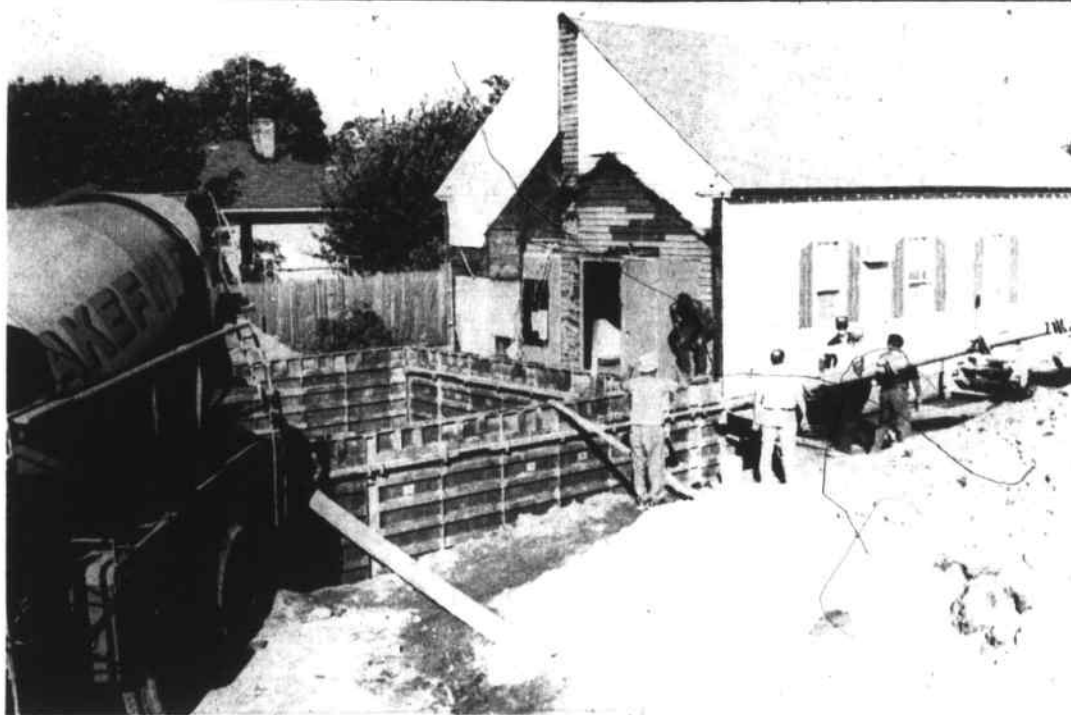

While agreeing that the new dog officer has indeed improved the position, Stapczynski and selectmen said the town wasn't in a position to handle the post as a full time position at this time. They cited the cost, the need to rebid the position, and the need for further "evidence" that the job requirements be increased.

In the end, voters defeated Neilson's amendment. The line item for additional pay for the dog officer passed, raising the appropriation from $5788 to $15,000.

The request to raise $210,000 for the high school bond passed easily. It was the third vote needed to allow Stapczynski to prepare a 10 year bond for high school renovation additions. Voters had agreed to override Prop 2 1/2 at Saturday's election in order to fund the addendum.

Both Stapczynski and selectman Jim Stewart spoke in favor of approving additional funds for the Tech, saying taxpayers are "obligated" because the other district towns agreed to the budget increase. Stewart, however, pointed out this is the second year Wilmington voters disapproved an increase in that budget. He suggested that in the future there be closer cooperation between the Tech and the town and more budget preparation.

Tech school committeeman Kevin Sowyrda reported that he did not been for "some very significant confusion" over claims of "double dipping" at April's meeting, voters might have passed the budget at that time.

Adding on

Work is underway on an addition to the Fourth of July Building, which was once the town library, and before that, a one-room schoolhouse. The addition will include handicapped-accessible restrooms and a ramped entrance. The town appropriated $24,000 for the work, but much of the labor and materials will be donated.

Carnival permit clears school committee

by Arlene Surprenant
Through a four to one vote, school committee members last Wednesday okayed a Fourth of July carnival on the high school JV field, despite some protest by abutters and committeeman Shirley Callan.

The favorable vote removed the last obstacle to holding the carnival. The Fourth of July Committee had previously been successful in obtaining a special permit from the board of appeals.

Callan expressed concern that using the field might be "like putting a flag in front of the kids" and lead to further incidents of vandalism. Fourth of July Committee Chairman Jack Cushing answered there would be extra security and, in the past, acts of vandalism were actually down during the week long festivities.

Neighbors brought up a wide range of concerns including the "fragile environment" of the playing field and the possibility of damage from heavy equipment and large crowds, the question of liability, delays to the renovation work, and constant noise and aggravation to abutters.

Bob Woods of Adams Street said the carnival may run from 6 to 10 p.m., but to neighbors, "that's four hours of agony."

"It seems, as long as it's not in your neighborhood, it's all right," he added.

Residents were assured that the carnival would cause no work delays and, since it was commonplace for most carnivals to set up in fields, not much damage could ensue. Cushing pointed out, also, that the field is slated for repair work in the fall.

"No matter where it's held, it's going to be inconvenient for some people," said Mitchell Spiris, adding that the Fourth of July celebration is "one of the finest things this town does."

When John Sanborn claimed Spiris shouldn't vote on the issue because of a family relationship with the Cushings and a question of profits, Spiris retorted "I'll be darned if I should refrain from voting on everything related to a Cushing."

Argument over minutes splits school committee

by Arlene Surprenant
A flap over the school committee minutes of May 14 led to charges of political maneuvering and counter charges of voting "collusion" in the election of vice-chairman Bridget Zukas during last Wednesday's committee meeting.

It started out as a simple move to approve the minutes of May 14. Shirley Callan disagreed with the terminology in those minutes, claiming she voted "present" and not "pass" during the vice-chairmanship vote. Parliamentary procedures seem to differ on the meaning of a present, pass, and abstain vote.

Though confusion reigned during much of the disagreement, Callan stressed she wasn't concerned with challenging Zukas' right to the position as much as she was with correcting the minutes and going along with the bylaws. Under those bylaws, Zukas needed a majority vote of the board to attain the vice-chairman post.

"After six years on the committee, I never realized this position was so important," Zukas said. She went on to read a lengthy statement claiming the issue under discussion was a political one. She told board members she had planned to leave the committee when her term was up in April. Now, however, she is determined to run again because "I can't walk away from this intrigue."

Both committeeman, Mitchell Spiris, and resident, Anne Linehan, claimed there was a "suspicion of collusion" in Zukas' successful election bid. Spiris was the only other contender for that position.

"I think you need to realize you are working for a school committee and not a committee of three,"

Spiris told Zukas.

Chairman Robert Peterson suggested withdrawing the minutes until the vote was clarified in the original shorthand notes. Spiris asked that they also seek a legal opinion on that vote.

Voters approve 2 1/2 override

by Arlene Surprenant
Less than 1,000 voters braved the inclement weather Saturday to approve a Prop 2 1/2 override to fund an addendum to the original $6.5 million bond for high school renovations. Though 117 voters spelled the difference between success and failure, in one precinct there was only one vote difference and in two precincts the override failed.

Wardens at polls in town hall and the Wildwood School expressed disappointment that the turn-out of young adults with elementary age children was so low.

According to Sarah Cosman, the majority of voters at town hall were older citizens, something agreed to by Town Clerk Pat Lynch, who was stationed at the Wildwood School. However, she added, throughout the day she did see a mixture of elderly and young people and at no time could she predict how the vote was going.

"I feel terrific," said an elated Buzz Stapczynski. The Town Manager added that "it's very nice to have the support of the voters. This secures a facility in Wilmington which will be more modern and up-to-date, one which will be used by the entire community."

According to Permanent Building

Committeeman, Diane Allan, her board anticipates receiving official approval of the amendment from the State Department of Education this month and going out to bid on additional items "as soon as possible."

"Once the Department of Education sees the town's forces are behind it, I don't see there will be a problem with additional items," Allan stated optimistically. The following is a run-down on Saturday's vote.

On your feet

Arthritis

Arthritis in the feet takes many forms, the most common of which are Rheumatoid arthritis (R.A.), Degenerative Joint Disease (D.J.D.); due to overuse or damage and Gout arthritis. Arthritis generally refers to pain and swelling of the tissues that surround the joint and not necessarily due to pain from bone in the joint. The most common forms of arthritis are R.A. and D.J.D. but the most painful form is probably Gout. Primary treatment of any of these forms of arthritis are usually a combination of medicine and therapy. In addition, the patient is usually referred to a General Physician or Arthritis specialist (Rheumatologist) for additional treatment. Long term treatment may involve surgical care, but prompt recognition & early treatment may avert the need for such care.

Retirement gift Irene Sharp Brennan opens a gift, a nightgown, which she promised to model for everyone. Helping with the wrapping is Bill Fay.

Retirement party for Irene Brennan

"She came here for a couple of weeks, and stayed for 40 years," said Bill Fay, fondly referring to Irene Sharp Brennan.

Fay served as master of ceremonies last Wednesday evening as friends, fellow teachers and former students wished Mrs. Brennan well on her retirement.

She has worked for seven superintendents, has worked in almost every school building in town, and has done a lot of things.

When she first came to Wilmington, she would teach any subject that nobody else wanted, from algebra to ancient history. She taught mainly business subjects. In 1956, she was appointed assistant guidance counselor at the high school. She spent the remainder of her career in guidance.

Fay, who was Mrs. Brennan's principal at the time of her retirement, said that he wouldn't be there if it weren't for Irene. He said that she had convinced him to go to Salem State College and become a teacher.

Ironically, Fay is also leaving education this year, too. He has been granted a one-year leave of absence, having bought a travel agency. He has been principal of the West Intermediate School for many years.

Three other Wilmington teachers are retiring this year as well, Alice McCarthy, Jay Miller and Jean Doucette.

A native of Charlestown, Mrs. Brennan was for many years Miss Sharp, "Sharp by name, sharp by nature, and sharp-tongued when I have to be," she would tell her students.

Her father built a cottage at Silver Lake in 1926, and the family came to Wilmington every summer for many years. She moved her in 1946, when she was hired as a substitute in the old Center School.

She taught there for two years, then taught in the old high school. When the present high school was built in 1950, she moved to that building. In 1970, she moved to the North Intermediate, and then the West. For the past five years, she has been assigned to both the North and West Intermediate Schools.

She promised her colleagues that she will still be around, maybe doing substitute teaching, maybe driving a bus.

"I'm not leaving. I live in town. I'm a taxpayer. I own the schools," she said.

Challenge issued for Fourth of July events

The Fourth of July Committee is issuing a challenge to teams from Wilmington to compete in the co-ed athletic events to be held at the Common during the week-long Fourth of July festivities.

The Lions Club is putting together a team as are the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

Can the Wilmington High School classes that competed in the Memorial Weekend Softball Tournament find enough stamina to compete in 11 different athletic events?

Skill levels will not be of top priority -- participation will. Couples relay walk, hospital bed race, basketball shootout, road race, ladies' two mile walk, halfball, triathlon, volleyball, croquet, badminton, and horse-shoes are the events -- and they should make for a good time.

So start putting your team together. You can register for these events through any member of the Fourth of July Committee. Watch the paper for details.

See you on the Common!

Dembowski tackles four areas of concern

by Arlene Surprenant

Four areas of concern - extending the kindergarten day, expanding the elementary computer program, school reorganization, and the accreditation of district elementary schools - are the subject of a study being undertaken by Assistant Superintendent Henry Dembowski. Labeled the Eighteen Month Plan, Dembowski told the Wilmington School Committee last Wednesday that he has been researching these areas and anticipates coming back to the committee next September and January with his final recommendation.

"I think we can anticipate some form of extended day," Dembowski said of the kindergarten program. Right now, he's leaning toward a 9 to 11:30 a.m. day for most youngsters with an extension to 1 p.m. for those students who pass a developmental entry test and can handle the extra time.

Two educators granted leaves of absence

by Arlene Surprenant

Both West Intermediate Principal William Fay and Woburn Street School teacher William Simmons were granted a one year leave of absence by the Wilmington School Committee last Wednesday night.

Fay, long a member of the Wilmington School System, requested the time off effective August 31 to pursue another career option. Simmons, who taught in the system 15 years, requested leave to gain administrative experience in the Derry, New Hampshire school district.

In a recent interview, Fay said he felt the time was ripe for a change as the West Intermediate has gone as far as it can go under his leadership. Since losing bids for the high school principalship and the superintendency, Fay added, some of the "challenge" has gone for him.

Fay's effectiveness as a principal, first at the North and then at the West Intermediate School, was aided by the school rapport he had with the students in his care, his faculty, and parents in the community.

"My greatest reward is that people had enough confidence to put their kids in my care," said Fay, adding that he will greatly miss the day to day contact with the students.

Of the Wilmington School System, he pointed out "we're in a transition period" and the system, under Superintendent Robert Horan, is "definitely on its way back." He feels Horan has been good for the system because he's "low key and very responsive to teachers and administrators."

Fay will be taking over the American Traveller travel agency headquartered in Wilmington. "This is the brass ring that kind of fell into my lap," said Fay of the opportunity to move in another direction in "the private sector."

Simmons told the committee Wednesday "I want a chance to further myself and bring my skills back to Wilmington." He will be taking a job as assistant principal in the Derry system for one year then expects to return to Wilmington. Horan said though he was "all in favor" of the move, he couldn't recommend approval since leaves are only granted to explore avenues outside the educational field. The committee, however, could and did grant the leave, contingent upon the president of the Teachers' Association agreeing to sign off without prejudice.

Both men were lauded by committee members. In referring to Simmons' new position, Shirley Callan said "I see this as a betterment; I think he's generous to return." Of Fay, Bridget Zukas said, "I'm very sorry he's seeking another career. Mr. Fay has always shown the most genuine caring for the children and they're going to lose their best friend."

After taking several surveys, Dembowski found the system's computers are not being used to their maximum. He suggested the development of a computer curriculum and starting computer education in grade four with a computer lab and instructor in each elementary school. As part of his job, Dembowski added, the instructor should be trained to maintain the equipment for longer life.

Dembowski anticipates most parental concern will center around a reorganization plan to utilize building space to the optimum. Because the elementary school population is now at its peak and the intermediate schools are only half full, Dembowski has been looking at five options to balance the populations.

Included in the potential plans are one to use one intermediate school for seventh and eighth grades and the other for grades five and six, and another to reopen the Boutwell School and redistrict.

The accreditation process is already underway with the formation of three elementary steering committees, Dembowski said. A visiting team of professionals is expected to visit Wilmington in the fall of 1987 to point out areas of improvement, he added.

Frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

The race for governor in Massachusetts has probably brought more attention to the Republican party lately than it has ever received in the past year. And, it would seem to be a safe assumption that the two candidates running for the Republican primary nomination in September have had their share of difficulties; or perhaps a better word would be embarrassments. We shall hence refer to this situation as the Hyatt-Switzler Syndrome.

All of this can be broken down into various parts, beginning with Greg Hyatt and some rather interesting accusations made by his former employer three days prior to the Republican convention. To say that the accusations were interesting would be an understatement; in fact, they were the ingredients for a juicy political soap opera. Hyatt had allegedly been 'fired' by his former employer for erratic behavior on the job, which included being found in his office with his drawers down, quite literally. Of course, Hyatt responded that he may have simply been changing at the time. This might just go to show that Greg is cleaner than most people, requiring a change of undergarments between coffee breaks. This is the type of guy we need in Massachusetts politics -- a real clean politician who changes his draws every four hours, just like Dunkin' Donuts. And most important of all, this information proves that Greg Hyatt has nothing to hide.

In any event, the Republican convention was buzzing with the news on Hyatt and organized a movement to draft an alternative candidate. The name Switzler began to come up, and before Hyatt could change his clothes the state representative from Wellesley, Royal Switzler, had captured the nomination.

Now Royal Switzler is not a stranger to politics. For the past ten years he has been a proverbial nuisance to the House leadership, acting in the role of a watchdog legislator. Switzler has always been the type of politician that people either love or hate. And, whether you admire the man or not would depend on your own political persuasion. To most people he is the star of Channel 44, which provides live coverage of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. Royal was the guy you would see debating anything from a new clerks position at one of the district courts to the phone bill of a fellow legislator. In summary, he is probably the most fiscally conservative member in the history of the state legislature, and for this reason had a large following here in Taxachusetts.

Subsequently, the Republican party left their convention with a surprise nominee, and a lower slate of candidates who were felt to be quite promising, even by the Democrats. The general feeling was that the stories on Hyatt had crippled him, and that Switzler would take the lead. However, we may now want to give that one a second thought. Last week Switzler made the shocking announcement that he was responsible for some serious errors on his old campaign literature. Royal had apparently stated that he was a captain in the army, and a Green Beret no less, who had seen action in Vietnam. In fact, Switzler never rose above the rank of sergeant, and served in Korea, only visiting Vietnam briefly. Switzler had apparently contracted John Lakian's disease.

The effect of Switzler's disclosure was obvious. There were about thirty Republican state reps on Beacon Hill recommending that Switzler make immediate funeral arrangements. Instead, Switzler has barricaded himself in his basement office at the State House deciding what his next move should be. His options appear rather limited at this point, but you still have to feel a little bad for good old Royal. It can't be too easy being the state rep from a town like Wellesley, where quiche is served at all the town meetings. He probably felt that his yuppie constituents would not stand for anyone who was a mere sergeant. The rank of captain is much more acceptable in Wellesley. As for saying he served in Vietnam, Switzler has apparently been watching too many Sylvester Stallone movies, thus succumbing to yet another disease, the Rambo Syndrome.

All of this leaves the Republican party in a bit of turmoil right now. Hyatt got a raw deal because of an unsubstantiated story whose timing was quite suspicious, and now Royal Switzler appears to have royally botched his political career. The end result of all this may be that the party needs to take a close look at itself. There are quite a few conservatives out there who are looking for an organized republican party to support, but right about now they would have to drive up to New Hampshire to find it. And, you can say what you like about Switzler and Hyatt, but we have yet to see people jumping to put on their Dukakis bumper stickers. The best solution for all of this is a state wide Republican candidate who is not only free from controversy but recognized by all the people as a legitimate contender.

Having completed his work for the season, I wonder what Larry Bird is doing this November?

point of view

A special dad

by Arlene Surprenant

As Father's Day approaches, memories flood back to a simpler time when fathers had time for their families and reveled in the somewhat chauvinistic title, Head of the Household.

There is no doubt that, in what my daughter often refers to as "the olden days," my father was indeed head of the house.

Whether it was a command to 'clean your plate or your room', or a barked order to 'help your mother or do your homework', my younger siblings and myself were never in any doubt that when our father spoke, we had better listen.

I remember one disagreement I had with my dad over a midnight curfew. Never mind that I was out of college, officially engaged, and about to embark on the poetical "seas of matrimony." If you lived under my father's roof, you obeyed his rules and obey them I did -- under protest.

As Head of the Household, my dad was also chief repairman and carpenter par excellence. Leaky faucets, flooded toilets and basements, cracked walls, and other assorted repairs all claimed my father's undivided attention, never mind that the same repairs had to be made year after year. I think the challenge was what was most important -- the sense that, for a time, my dad could and did overcome the odds.

As eldest, I was the son my father only had years later. I was tapped to learn how to hammer a nail, hold beams straight as the roof was raised, hang shelves, shovel snow, mow the lawn, and do a variety of other male-type tasks that were later taken over by two talented brothers.

As Head of the Household, dad shelled out the money, doling out what little allowances we could wheedle out of him, with a tight fist. To this day, he is anything but a spendthrift, always being careful to use an item until it literally falls apart in his hands. Only after something is deemed no longer usable -- and after much coupon clipping and comparison shopping -- does my father break down and make his big purchase.

Along with being Head of the Household, my dad is a talented musician, a lover of people, and a firm believer that God will prevail in his life.

My father loves to sing. Fortunately, his tenor voice is of a professional caliber and so riveting that when he sings, people enjoy listening. Renditions of "My Wild Irish Rose," "Peg O' My Heart," and "Darktown Strutters Ball" bring tears to my eyes even today as I will recall songfests around campfires and family gatherings around the basement piano.

My dad also contributed much to our local church choir with some commanding solos and soul-touching duets with my mom. He often would pick up and play various instruments and was the prime mover behind a family band which played at early dawn services and other local functions.

These days, dad strums along on a banjo with a Florida-based banjo band, a band which is rapidly becoming known for its fine musical renditions and easy going camaraderie.

My father also loves people. Give him five minutes and he'll know your life history -- or you'll know his. In the past, he has made friends in some out-of-the-way places -- under car hoods, around a poker table, swimming in a lake, bending over in store aisles, or traveling cross country in a long since discarded van.

One fact is certain; you could never call my father shy. Rather, he goes out of his way to make others feel at home. He savors life and, since his long-time bout with heart problems, considers each day a gift from God.

Today, the word that best describes my father is mellow. Gone -- almost -- are the barked orders, the strict rules, the worry and daily responsibilities of raising five kids. In its place is a relaxed way of life, the enjoyment of numerous grandchildren, and an ability to take each day a step at a time.

Though he'll always be the Head of the Household to me, I'm grateful this Father's Day that dad can finally sit back and reap some of the benefits he so richly deserves. Happy Father's Day, Dad, and many, many more.

The June 15, 1961 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Joe Landry of Taft Road was awarded his third full year scholarship at the School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston.

The Skating Club of Wilmington was to conduct a mammoth white elephant sale on June 26, 27, 28, 29 for the Youth Canteen Building. Mrs. Dorothy Fiske and Mrs. Jean Waugh were in charge of collections.

An article by editor gave credit for the construction of what was termed "an excellent baseball diamond" to Francis Downs and his father-in-law Bill Andrews and said it's time for them to stand up and take a bow.

A three bedroom "cozy cape" was offered by Silver Lake Realty for $12,500.

Elia's advertised spare ribs for 49 cents and chuck steaks for 69.

A surprise award the Citizenship Award was presented to Kevin McKelvey, a junior, by the Youth Canteen.

Silver Lake Hardware advertised aluminum, alcoa windows, a $20 value for $12.50; garden hose, 50 feet for $1.98 and five pounds of grass seed for $1.59.

Roger Beaupre of Park Street was chosen to be the Grand Knight of the Wilmington K of C. Edward Driscoll would serve as deputy knight; Steven MacGinnis would be chancellor and George Quinn was elected warden.

Forty-three women attended the first meeting of the League of Women Voters of Wilmington where Mrs. Henry Sullivan of Gunderson Road was elected president; Mrs. George Robertie vice president; Mrs. Philip Andrews second vice president; Mrs. Stanley Bryn, secretary and Mrs. Peter Stratos, treasurer.

Wilmington changes septic rules

by Arlene Surprenant
The Wilmington Board of Health tightened up septic system regulations for new homes last Friday bowing, in some instances, to concerns expressed by local builders and engineers at a prior meeting.

Board chairman Dr. James Ficociello spoke for all when he said he hoped the new regulations would be looked on as "rational, reasonable" and "something we can all live with."

Under the revised regulations, the capacity of septic tanks will be increased from 1250 to 1500 gallons. According to a recent data study, said board member Domenic Tutela, this size tank shouldn't have been cleaned out for 20 years.

Though there will be an 800 square foot minimum on each primary and reserve leaching bed, members agreed they could allow builders to put in a smaller reserve area and larger primary one and still remain within Title V septic system guidelines.

Under the regulations, the flow rate will be increased to 150 gallons per bedroom with a minimum of 600 gallons per lot.

So as not to penalize small lot owners, however, members decided builders could waive the regulations providing they guarantee the number of bedrooms in a home on that property would never exceed three. This guarantee would be registered with the deed and brought to the attention of anyone purchasing that home at a later date.

Other changes require that trenches be a minimum of two feet deep and a maximum of three feet wide. Pits will have to be a minimum of three feet deep.

Builders will have to comply with the new regulations after a 30 day grace period from the date of publication in the local paper.

School may alter grad requirement

by Arlene Surprenant
Superintendent Robert Horan recommended a change in the current science requirements for graduation at last Wednesday's school committee meeting.

Because the freshman year is "a very difficult year," said Horan, he felt the average student wouldn't be able to carry six major courses in one year. He suggested requirements be cut back from four years of science to three years of science with one of those years being a health course. The ideal solution, he said, would be to offer health at the intermediate level.

Members suggested Horan give two weeks notice since this is a change in school policy. Both Bridget Zukas and Shirley Callan felt the stringent requirements were unfair to the average or struggling student. Zukas said she originally voted against the 120 credit requirements saying she "realized how dangerous this could be even for the high achiever."

Callan pointed out that "now we've got them increased and we can't work with them."

"All we're doing is leaving a door open for that struggling student" and giving him "a more flexible option," explained Assistant Superintendent Henry Dembowski.

The committee voted unanimously to allow a two week notification period before voting on the change.

Summer reading program to begin June 13

by Arlene Surprenant
It's going to be a Star-Spangled Summer for Wilmington youngsters who take advantage of the library's fifth annual summer reading program. The fun begins June 13 and lasts all summer long.

As in previous years, the program will be co-sponsored by the Language Arts Department of the Wilmington Public Schools and the library's Children's Dept. For the first time, children entering kindergarten in the fall are also eligible to take part in this popular program.

According to Sara Reuter, head of Services to Children and Youth, children will be able to begin signing up for summer reading kits centered around a star theme June 13th and the Mini Film Festival starring "The Mole" June 16.

As extra added attractions, children may participate in a rhyme time contest which ends July 31 and poetry workshops slated for July 9, 16, and 23. They may also come out for read-aloud sessions each Tuesday in July and August; watch filmstrips July 10 through August 21; and be eligible to win prizes as "Lucky Reader of the Week." Book lists and displays on the star theme will be featured throughout the summer.

The summer reading program was conceived and inaugurated in 1982 by Brenda Squire, head of the school system's Language Arts Dept. Since that time, it has been "a model of cooperation between these two town departments concerned with children and their reading," said Mrs. Reuter. This program, she added, "encourages children to take advantage of the public library's collection of books and materials and its services in order to further their pleasure in reading and maintain reading skills developed over the past school year."

In September, elementary age children will also participate in a week of school activities related to the Star-Spangled theme.

The reading kits this summer include a star to be signed and hung from the Children's Room ceiling, a celestial bookmark, information on the poetry workshops and rhyme-time contest, and a folder where names and authors of books read throughout the summer may be listed.

Though the overall program is under the guidance of Mrs. Reuter, extra credit goes to Assistant Children's Librarian Susan MacDonald for the graphics and art work evident in the kits and the display of theme-related material throughout the library. Volunteers were called on to cut out stars and put the kits together while the public schools helped fund the printing of folders and bookmarks and ran off numerous kit materials.

A flyer on the program, including a registration coupon from the library, will be sent home with elementary age children this week. Extra coupons are available at the Children's Room.

One final note: a special treat is in store for children wishing to sign up for poetry workshops conducted by local poetess, Helena Minton. Mrs. Minton, a part-time reference librarian at the Reading Public Library, is a published poet who has conducted similar workshops in the elementary schools. Workshops will be limited to 20 children and will be held on three Wednesdays from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Outstanding student

Karen Arnold of Wilmington received the Outstanding Student in Word Processing award during graduation ceremonies held at Minuteman Tech., Lexington.

Yes, it was wet

The last half of the first week in June was very wet. Everyone will agree to that statement.

According to the Wilmington Water Department measurements, there was a total of 3.16 inches of rain. On Thursday there was 1.18 inches, on Friday there was 1.72 inches, and 0.24 inches on Saturday.

The Jimmy Hale story

Abiel Carter found the trail

©Copyright 1986
by Capt. Larz Neilson

How many persons were there who saw Jimmy Hale go through the window and into the home of Martha and Daniel Pearson, back in 1849?

Possibly there were a dozen. Possibly there were two or more dozen. There might have been half a hundred persons, no one knows.

Somehow, in the days when hardly anyone knew of the telegraph, just invented by Samuel F.B. Morse, the news of the murders spread quickly.

Abiel Carter possibly did not hear of it immediately. He lived two miles away, on what is now Glen Road, just up from the Wildcat Railroad. His home was on the right hand side, going toward Silver Lake.

Abiel, a fifth generation descendant of the Rev. Thomas Carter of Woburn (1642), was the constable of Wilmington. As the constable he had to post notices about the town meetings, and the business of the selectmen. He was also Wilmington's policeman.

Now he had some work to do.

Daniel Pearson was nowhere to be found. No one had seen him for days. If there were any footprints in back of the house they had been destroyed by the people who had been gathering in back of the Pearson home.

But, when Abiel arrived, he scouted around.

Out in front, near the Andover Road, he found some footprints. They were of a man, and the sole of the right shoe was marked by a knife cut. Evidently a man had repaired his own shoes, and had had a slight accident with a knife.

Abiel followed those footprints down the Andover Road, to what is now Salem Street, and to what is now Middlesex Avenue. In those days Middlesex Avenue was called "the Main Road."

He followed the footprints down the Main Road to what is now Main Street, where they turned left, toward the railroad station on the south side of what is now Burlington Avenue. There, at the platform, the footprints disappeared. Someone, with a cut in the sole of his shoe, had evidently taken a train to Boston or Lowell.

Another person who was interested was Lemuel Cobb Eames. He lived in the old Daniel Eames house (1723) on Woburn Street, across from Wildwood Street, where the Wolff family lives today.

He was a son of Ensign Nathan Eames, a brother to Nathan, and an uncle to Mary Ann Eames Hale. He was, in 1849, 36 years old.

Eames was a graduate of Phillips Academy, and was chairman of the Board of Selectmen. In later years he was to hold other offices, including that of state representative.

The people who attended church with him on Sundays called him "Cobb." It was a distinctive name, for a person who was distinctive.

Those who labored on the farms of Wilmington, or did similar work, called him "Lem."

The selectmen discussed the murders, in their next meeting. Presumably Daniel Pearson had committed the murders. How could it be proven?

They offered a $25 reward. That was a lot of money, back in 1849.

Cobb Eames went to Boston. He found a livery stable where Daniel Pearson had worked, keeping care of horses. But Pearson had left. Some one said he had gone to New York on a ship.

Every month or two Cobb Eames returned to Boston and scouted around in the livery stables. Finally he found there was one in which Pearson was working. Cobb returned home, and made a few arrangements.

Then he went back to Boston, to the stable where Pearson was working. He succeeded in convincing Daniel Pearson that he should return to Wilmington and help to solve the murders.

They got on a Boston & Maine train and got off at Reading. There the constable was waiting. The constable snapped a pair of handcuffs on the wrists of Daniel Pearson.

Pearson turned around to Cobb Eames. "Lem," he said, "if I'd of known you was gonna do this, you'd a never left Boston!"

Jimmy's daughter, Susanna Hale, otherwise known as Aunt Suzy, told that to the writer many years ago. She was 93 years old at the time.

The shoes which Daniel Pearson was wearing when arrested were hand-patched. They had an identical cut, on the sole, to that seen in the sand of Andover Road by Abiel Carter. Pearson was tried for murder. His defense attorney was Benjamin Butler of Lowell.

Butler was to become famous. He became a Major General in the Civil War. He became Governor of Massachusetts. He also made a remark about a professor at Harvard College during a murder trial, for which Harvard never forgave him.

Pearson had no money, to pay for Butler's services. Butler had him sign over the ownership of the house.

But Butler could not beat the evidence of that shoe cut, in the sand on the Andover Road. Daniel was hung, in the Charlestown State Prison.

His body was buried just inside the Middlesex Avenue gate to Wildwood Cemetery in Wilmington. Many years ago the ladies of Wilmington would tell their daughters that the body was buried in the middle of the entrance, so their horses and carriages would go over the body.

But that was not correct. Daniel Pearson was buried in ground to the right of the entrance. It is there today, without a tombstone.

In that same cemetery, but in a place unknown, are the bodies of his wife and two children. There is a record they were buried, but no one knows where.

Butler collected his fee, and later a part of that home was sold to Jerry Doucette. Jerry, the first of his name in Wilmington, was a Nova Scotia Frenchman who built a big home, on Ballardvale Street. It is now owned by his grandson, Bobby Doucette.

That part of the murder home may still be on the Doucette property. Jeffy Doucette used it for years, as a chicken coupe.

Eames
Wolff
home

The home of Lemuel Cobb Eames on Woburn Street, across from Wildwood Street, built in 1723. The man on the porch is probably not Cobb Eames. Cobb died in 1895 and this picture was taken about 1900, so it is guessed by Ed Nelson Eames.

Wilmington eyes changes to drug & alcohol policy

by Arlene Surprenant

The Drug and Alcohol Abuse Task Force responsible for the creation of Wilmington's two year old drug policy has been looking at several changes in the policy, according to member Anne Linehan. Revisions, she stated recently, may take the form of a counseling component to aid offenders and a lessening of the extracurricular activity restriction.

Though the general consensus is that the policy has been successful, most school committee members reiterated a need for a policy review following a recent executive session. After that session, Superintendent Robert Horan overruled high school administrators and lifted the restriction on two students found to be "in possession."

Task force members will meet with local police; representatives of the high school athletic department, central office, and the Regional Health Center; and members of the school committee on June 18 at 4 p.m. to go over proposed revisions. They will then make their recommendation and present alternatives to individual school committee members. The school committee will view the policy at its July 8th meeting.

It is expected that the review will go as quickly as possible so the revised policy will be in place by opening day in September.

Tech may change drug policy

by Arlene Surprenant

A move to refine Shawsheen Tech's new drug and alcohol policy before it even goes into effect was denied Tuesday following a lengthy discussion by the school committee.

Superintendent-Director Benjamin Wolk asked the board to eliminate an extra-curricular activity restriction which would keep offenders out of extra programs and off athletic teams for one calendar year. This restriction, he felt, would only penalize a minority of students or approximately 40 percent who currently participate in those activities. The other 60 percent, he claimed would not be affected by this section of the policy, something he viewed as unfair.

Instead of the restriction, Wolk said he would like to see some sort of rehabilitation program included in its place. He stressed that the school should be "concerned with cure and rehabilitation rather than punishment."

Committee Kevin Sowyrda took strong exception to the request. He pointed out the policy only goes into effect in September and suggested they give it a chance to work before making changes.

Other members were adamant that the policy needs to be harsh to serve as a deterrent to potential drug users. The Handbook Committee which created the policy recommended board members stay with the original guidelines.

Women in Business to meet June 17

The Women in Business Division of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce held a dinner meeting recently at the Royal Dynasty Restaurant in Wilmington.

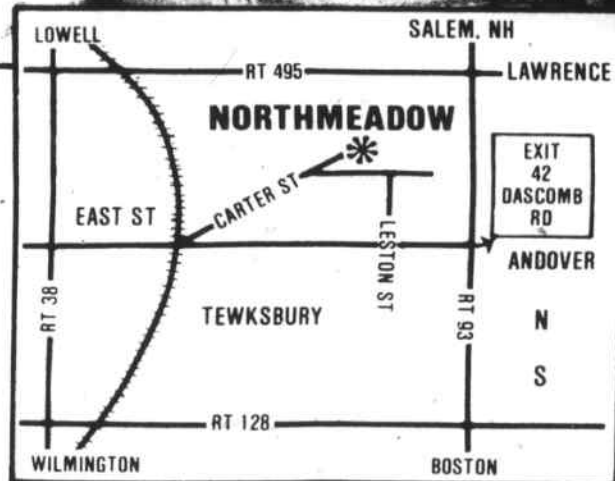

In commemoration of Small Business Week, guest speaker Elizabeth Elios, retired business owner representing S.C.O.R.E., addressed the group of business and professional women on the services provided, free of charge, through her volunteer organization. S.C.O.R.E. is a division of the Small Business Administration.

Susan Becmer, who recently went into a mail-order business out of her home in the Silver Lake area, related her positive experiences with the counseling and workshops she attended in preparation for entering her new career.

The next Women in Business monthly meeting is scheduled for June 17 and will feature a business management round table focusing on a discussion of situations and concerns identified by members in the daily operation of their business.

Further information on the Women in Business Division can be obtained by contacting the group's chairman, Carolyn Santorsola, manager of the Wilmington Branch of the Arlington Trust Company at 657-4830.

HAY FEVER

The season is fast approaching when pollen will infiltrate the air we breathe and cause the typical symptoms of sneezing, stuffiness, sniffing, itchy noses, swollen eyes, and pure misery we know as hay fever.

Hay fever is an allergic reaction to pollen in the air. Hay fever affects approximately one in fifteen persons. Our bodies have a natural defense system (the immune system) that responds to foreign substances entering the body. When the immune system overreacts to substances ordinarily considered harmless (pollen, mold, etc.) the result is a release of histamine which, in turn, causes the allergic symptoms many of us know too well - itchy, runny nose, sneezing, tearing, and inflammation in the throat. Antihistamines and decongestants are the common treatment for hay fever. Decongestants help eliminate the stuffiness associated with hay fever.

In addition to nasal symptoms, it is not unusual for patients to experience fatigue, irritability, loss of appetite, and weakness. Many experience morning episodes of rapid sneezing.

If you have questions about the treatment of hay fever, come into Lyman's Village Apothecary and our pharmacists will be happy to assist you in choosing the best treatment for your symptoms.

Assertiveness program scheduled

Many of us do not speak up for ourselves when we ought to, and as a result we often feel upset, anxious, frustrated or angry with ourselves for not doing so. We do not speak up because we do not want to hurt the feelings of another person or we do not want to "rock the boat." A result of our inability to communicate effectively is that our needs are not expressed, and therefore are not met.

To help you learn to speak up in a positive, open, honest, and appropriate manner, the Community Health Education Department of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington will conduct "It's Never Too Late To Speak Up: Assertiveness Training To Help You Meet Your Needs." This program is part of the "Feeling Fine After 50" educational series and will be conducted Wednesday, June 18 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

This program will be presented by Ms. Beth I. Goldberg, M.S., director of the Community Health Education Department. Ms. Goldberg will discuss the difference between the passive, aggressive, and the assertive person; focusing on the benefits of being assertive. How to best express your needs to your physician, friends, and relatives will also be covered.

Please contact the Community Health Education Department at 657-3910, ext. 567 for registration information.

Tewks library trip to the Pops

The Friends of Tewksbury Public Library have announced another bus excursion in their Arts on the Move cultural events series. The group will sponsor an evening at the Boston Pops on Saturday, June 14.

Ticket reservations are now being accepted at the public library. The cost of $20 per person includes admission (first balcony reserved seats) as well as round-trip transportation by bus. Buses will leave the parking lot of the Public Library at 6:30 p.m. for the 8 p.m. performance at Symphony Hall in Boston. All reservations must be pre-paid, and the cost is non-refundable. A limited number of reservations is still available. Children under the age of 16 years will not be allowed on this excursion.

Membership in the Friends of the Library is not required for this event.

It's YOUR Money

by Joyce Brisbois
Certified Public Accountant

WHERE'S YOUR IRA?

When the idea of Individual Retirement Accounts was new, it seemed simplest to place $2,000 or less in a bank account or certificate of deposit. Things have changed, and there are two reasons for this.

First, many sophisticated investment vehicles now allow minimum contributions of $2,000 for retirement accounts, even if the minimum investment is ordinarily $5,000. Real estate partnerships, mutual funds, and other deals can be entered this way.

Second, and just as important, IRAs have turned into big money. If you started putting $2,000 a year into an IRA five years ago, when they became available to everyone with earned income, you've probably got over $12,000 in the pot right now. That's enough money to diversify, if you want to, putting some cash in super-safe Treasury bonds and some into equity funds. Some banks are offering pooled trust funds. Don't bother with tax-advantaged instruments, though: your IRA withdrawals will be taxed as ordinary income.

Brought to you as a public service by Joyce K. Brisbois, C.P.A., 8 Middlesex Ave., P.O. Box 176, Wilmington, MA 01887 658-5034.

Shawsheen Tech to hire consultant for help with Superintendant search

by Arlene Surprenant
In an eight to one vote of the Shawsheen Tech School Committee, members agreed to hire a consultant to handle the workload in a search process and narrow down a potential field of candidates to replace Benjamin Wolk as Superintendent-Director.

Members argued the merits of hiring a consultant at the tail end of a long meeting Tuesday night. Those in favor stressed that a consultant would have more experience, knowledge, and time to devote to the process as well as a more objective view. Those opposed cited the high cost - something in the neighborhood of $6,000 - and the desire to be in on the process from the beginning. They also touched on job qualifications, salary, and in-house versus outside candidates, with no other decisions being reached.

The decision followed an earlier presentation by Dr. William Mahoney, a senior consultant from NESDEC (the New England School Development Council).

"We're matchmakers," Mahoney told the committee in outlining the search process his organization follows. He said NESDEC provides such services as assessing the needs of the system, advertising the job to "over 500 outlets," interviewing all likely candidates face to face, doing credential checks on finalists, and recommending eight to 12 candidates to the local school board. The whole process usually takes two to three months, he added, and is best undertaken in the spring or fall when more candidates abound. He advised the committee not to rush into anything, but to perhaps go with an interim superintendent for a brief period of time.

The majority of members disagreed with a statement by Kevin Sowyrda that NESDEC is "a lot of glamour" for the price they'll have to pay. Though he argued in favor of conducting the search themselves, the committee overruled him and moved to invite Mahoney back to the June 17 meeting.

Wolk due $7k sick leave pay

Shawsheen Tech's Benjamin Wolk only took an approximate 15 days sick leave in the 20 years he served as the school's Superintendent-Director, school committee members were told Tuesday night.

Chairman Jack Miller pointed out that committeemen should be aware that Wolk is entitled to "something in excess of $7,000" in buy back sick days when he retires August 1. Wolk was allowed 118 sick days from the time the benefit went into effect in the late 1970s.

Stand up for your deck or it might not stand up for you

When you build a deck or fence or other backyard project, insist on the building material that you know will last. We stock Wolmanized® pressure-treated lumber. There are other brands on the market, but Wolmanized wood is the brand that's guaranteed for 30 years against termites and decay and the brand that professional builders use 3 to 1 over the nearest competitor. There's a blue warranty label on every piece.

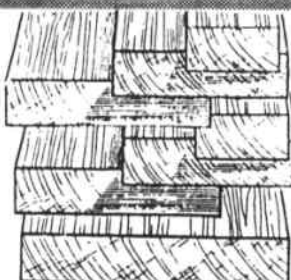

Stand up for your deck — don't accept substitutes.

Valedictorian

Shawsheen Tech Valedictorian Stephen Burke told fellow graduates not to accept their diplomas, because they were being sent into a dishonest world. His tongue-in-cheek address was well-received.

Keynote speaker

Dr. Thomas Cottle, a well-known psychologist, addressed the graduating class of Shawsheen Tech on Sunday afternoon at the Shriners' Auditorium.

Tewksbury auto grads

Brian Maciel, Thomas Forsyth and Christopher Bazzinotti, all of Tewksbury, were among the 15 who recently graduated from the first class in the Automotive Service Education Program (ASEP) at Massachusetts Bay Community College, Wellesley, receiving an Associate in Science Degree.

Tewksbury seeks volunteers

The Tewksbury Board of Selectmen is seeking more than 30 volunteers to fill slots in appointed positions.

According to Chairman of the Board Charles Coldwell, the annual deadline for naming people to appointed positions is Tuesday, June 17. Coldwell asked potential volunteers to submit their qualifications in writing to the Selectmen's Office before the deadline.

Among the openings to be filled are three seats on the Arts Lottery Council.

Host families needed

"AFS, an international student exchange program, offers local families an opportunity to demonstrate their belief that our youth hold the greatest promise for peace by hosting a foreign exchange student," says the Tewksbury Host Family Selection Committee Coordinator, Paul Millin.

AFS brings together a student from a different culture and a local family who through living together, learn from one another and grow, thus contributing to the development of peace globally.

A careful placement process, based on interviews and papers filled out by both the foreign exchange students and prospective host families is coordinated by AFS International headquarters in New York. Families and students are placed together on the basis of interests and lifestyle. Host families vary widely in age, size and income level. The local Host Family Committee looks for a sense of humor and curiosity, flexibility and above all a willingness to share their hearts and home with a stranger who will quickly become a family member.

Likewise the students AFS selects - and there's a rigorous screening process - are friendly, intelligent young people eager to learn about our country, community and culture. Our chapter volunteers provide support to the student, host family and school. This community based approach distinguishes the AFS Host families are not asked to make special expenditures for their AFS student, but they do pay for food costs and incidental expenses as they would for their own child. AFS extends medical coverage and a monthly allowance to its students.

Tewksbury families interested in hosting an AFS student during the 1986-87 school year should contact Paul Millin, the Tewksbury Host Family Committee coordinator immediately at 851-7616.

Town manager to speak at Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting

An overview of issues before the town which are of particular interest to the business community will be the subject of the June 24 breakfast meeting of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

Wilmington's Town Manager, Buzz Stapczynski, will be guest speaker at this month's meeting scheduled to begin at 7:30 a.m. at Stelio's Restaurant on Lowell Street.

Topics to be presented by the manager will include: a brief overview of the proposed plan for reconstruction of the Route 93/125 interchange; an update on local property tax and classification issues; the town's plans regarding the establishment of a Wilmington Municipal Electric Light Company and the proposed transportation improvements and relocation plans for the town center.

The Redevelopment Authority's scale model of the proposed town center project will be on display at the meeting.

Reservations are required for the breakfast and may be made by calling the Chamber office (657-7211) by Friday, June 20.

Regional Health Center nutrition workshop

With food costs continuing to rise and with evidence that meat has been shown to increase the risk of heart disease and cancer because of the fat content, the Regional Health Center in Wilmington will present "Protein Power: Save Money on Your Meat Bills."

This will enable area residents to learn to cook delicious, meatless dishes which would provide necessary nutrients and are economical. The course will be held Wednesday, June 18 from 7 to 9 p.m. and will be presented by Janet Murray, M.S., R.D.

Protein is essential in daily nutrition according to Janet Murray, because it builds and repairs body tissues, helps form antibodies to fight infection, and supplies energy.

Protein has traditionally been supplied in the American diet by sources including red meats, eggs, milk products, fish and poultry. Most of these sources are high in fat and/or cholesterol, and represent the more expensive components of the dietary budget.

Americans are now faced with a challenge - that of keeping food costs down and eating foods that keep the body healthy and possibly have a protective effect.

The nutritionist at "Protein Power" will demonstrate how to prepare several tasty, low-cost, high quality protein dishes using food combinations such as beans, legumes, tofu, seeds and grains. Emphasis will be placed on combining these protein sources to equal the protein found in meat, eggs, and dairy products while decreasing fat and calories. Vegetable protein sources are also high in dietary fiber which has been linked to lowering incidence of bowel cancer.

Participants will have the opportunity to eat a meal prepared during the course. Recipes and handouts on protein will be provided. Shopping ideas will be presented for saving money while maximizing nutritional value of foods.

Pre-registration is required by calling 657-6910, ext. 567. Nutritionists at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington are also available for individual nutrition counseling for weight control problems, cancer, diabetes, anemia, eating disorders (anorexia, bulimia), high cholesterol, high blood pressure or hypoglycemia.

The Regional Health Center in Wilmington is a division of Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc.

Wilmington Police News

During the week ending June 10, Wilmington Police Officers responded to 19 accidents, 35 alarms, seven disturbances, one fire, made five arrests and four protective custody detentions.

Other departments were assisted, three larcenies were investigated, medical assistance was rendered, two vehicles were reported stolen and three stolen vehicles were recovered.

Seven incidents of suspicious activity were investigated, two domestic problems were quieted, six incidents of vandalism are still under investigation, two trespassing complaints were taken along with five trailbike complaints, four traffic complaints and four complaints involving fireworks.

Officer Jim Cuoco and Clerk Beth Lessard went to Lynn District Court Wednesday afternoon to arrest Joanna Markarian, of Mall Street, Lynn on several warrants charging her with forgery and uttering. She was taken direct to Woburn Court where her case was continued for two weeks.

Saturday evening Officer Joe Waterhouse arrested a Tewksbury resident at the Tewksbury Police Station on a default warrant. Christopher Chinchillo of Heritage Drive was taken to the Wilmington lockup and bailed for a Monday court appearance.

Sunday evening Dawn Young of Crescent Street, Wilmington was arrested by Officer Maureen LeGrand on the basis of a Billerica default warrant. She was turned over to Billerica officers.

Georgetown police arrested a Haverhill man on a Wilmington warrant Sunday night. Thomas Mazzola is to appear in Woburn Court Monday.

Saturday morning a Wilmington man was injured in an accident on Forest Street and taken to Choate Hospital for treatment. Arthur Silva, Jr., 36, of Shawheen Avenue was struck head-on while driving south on Forest Street.

The driver of the other vehicle, Paul Mercurio, 41, of Kingfisher Road, Tewksbury was cited by investigating officer Jim Peterson for failing to drive within marked lanes.

A Friday night accident resulted in three young men being taken to the Regional Health Center for treatment of minor injuries. Dion DeJesus, 21, of Rhodes Street, and Stephen Strong, 19, of Chestnut Street were passengers in a car driven by George K. Dunnett, 21, of Woburn Street.

The driver apparently lost control of his vehicle and ran into two trees at 500 Woburn Street. Investigating was Officer LeGrand.

cap

Marshall Bishop of West Street, this year's captain of the Wilmington Minutemen, marches with the Liberty cap. The knit cap, with the word "Liberty", is placed atop the Liberty Pole before it is raised. Behind Bishop is John Vann of Arlington, general of the Massachusetts Council of Minutemen.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

The town of Tewksbury again is faced with another ethical issue at the next Special Town Meeting on Monday, June 16th at 8:00 P.M. This time the identified special interest group is the private school parents, who apparently are concerned solely with getting town funded busing for their children.

I am concerned with the lack of peripheral vision of special interest groups and their proponents, but this one takes the cake. Tewksbury is in a financial crunch and it is fact that:

1. Only one out of three fire stations is open on a 24 hour basis.
2. On occasion only two police cars cover this town at night.
3. We have lost all crossing guards at our public schools. These schools are all on busy streets or at intersections!

The above facts have compromised the safety of you, your family and your homes.

It is time to spend tax dollars on that which will directly benefit the entire town and not a select few.

Cuts have been made in the public school budget therefore not allowing your child the opportunities given to kids in surrounding communities.

Funding private school busing is a luxury we can ill afford in 1986. The monies generated by taxes should stay within the town boundaries. Tax dollars are for everyone not the selfish few who try to convince anyone that $310,000 will benefit everyone in town.

My parents both worked outside the home and getting their three children to private school was neither the moral nor ethical responsibility of Tewksbury 30 years ago, why should it be so now?

It is time for everyone to get their head out of the sand or whatever strange place it is kept - take off the blinders - expand your peripheral vision and for the progress and betterment of Tewksbury DEFEAT PRIVATE SCHOOL BUSING.

Tewksbury should be more than just a place to hang your hat.

Dear Larz:

On behalf of everyone involved with the benefit dance that was held for The Danny Rollins Memorial Scholarship Fund, we want to say thank you! The dance was a big success thanks to so many, many people, the Merchants of Wilmington who were so very generous with donations for the door prize and raffle, the Knights of Columbus, particularly Frank Sferazza, and last but not least everyone who donated.

Danny was a member of the Wilmington High School Class of 1986, and because of everyone's generosity we were able to present the first Memorial Scholarship to a deserving senior this year.

Thank you again,
David and Andrea Rollins

Tea for the British

The home of Adele Passmore on Andover Street in North Wilmington is known as the "Fourth of July House," having been "raised" on that day in 1776. Mrs. Passmore is an ardent historical researcher. On Sunday, she served tea to the British, so to speak. Officers and enlisted men of His Majesty's 47th Regiment of Foot visited her home, prior to the Wilmington Minutemen Liberty Pole ceremony. She is shown pouring tea for Major Bruce Collins, while Sergeant Malenchini (a good British name) raises his cup for a sip of American tea.

Disperse? Never!

The annual Liberty Pole ceremony recreates a battle that never was. Although Liberty Poles were raised in many towns in Massachusetts, no British troops ever came to Wilmington for a skirmish. But the modern-day Wilmington Minutemen find themselves face to face with British troops every year when they raise their Liberty Pole. Capt. Marshall Bishop, right, and Lt. Dan Lyon (back to the camera) go face to face with the British regulars. The British sergeant facing Lyon is Mal Malenchini of Fairmeadow Road, also a member of the Wilmington Minutemen. The two Redcoats with the bear skin hats are also members of the Wilmington Minutemen, closer to the camera is Ed Grace of Charlestown and the other is Roy Parsons of West St., Wilmington. Many men who dabble in this hobby wear more than one uniform and belong to several (and sometimes opposing) organizations.

Pole parade

Minutemen Jeff Coville and Frank Curley draw the Liberty Pole along Adelaide Street. The Minutemen hold an annual parade from the Common to Rotary Park, where they raise the Liberty Pole in defiance of the king.

Shawsheen Tech computer camp

A unique experience is in store for children in grades four through nine to enjoy a most unusual summer camp. Shawsheen Tech will conduct its fourth annual computer camp this summer which will take place on the grounds of the school.

The camp runs for a three week period from 8:00 in the morning to 1:00 in the afternoon. Children participate in three main programs.

The first program is a learning experience on computers which includes the use of Digital, IBM, Radio Shack, and Apple computers. This phase will start at 8:00 a.m. and be completed at 9:30.

The second phase is swimming instruction in the Shawsheen Tech olympic size pool where children are taught swimming, diving, water safety, and assorted water games. This portion of the camp goes for an hour and a half from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

The third phase is conducted outdoors where the campers take part in various physical education activities; such as softball, soccer, dodgeball and so forth. This section concludes at 1:00 p.m.

The first camp runs from July 7 through July 25 with the second group going from July 28 to August 15. Since there are a limited number of openings, parents are advised to make arrangements as soon as possible by calling Mrs. Ruzzo at 667-2111 ext. 103 for an application.

Tewksbury sets new bus rule

The Tewksbury school system recently established a new policy concerning the passing of school buses on school property.

Following a lengthy discussion, it was agreed that no vehicular traffic may pass a bus on school property while the bus has its school lights on. The bus will keep the school lights on while loading and unloading students in school yards.

It was further agreed that no staff member or bus driver may direct traffic to pass a bus with its school lights on.

Only a duly authorized police officer or Registry of Motor Vehicles officer may direct a bus driver to shut off the school lights on the bus. Only then may the police officer direct traffic around the bus. This is the only time that vehicles may pass a school bus while it is loading or discharging students.

Youth Soccer

Wilmington battles Billerica, 2-2

Unfortunately, this past weekend, was a complete washout for all the soccer teams, but the makeup games have all been scheduled for this week. The following are reports received from the coaches over the past two weeks.

Boys Under 10-1

The last two weeks have brought back-to-back ties to the boys under 10 team. On Saturday, May 24, the team played a tremendous game against Billerica, only to watch the visitors score two late goals to tie the game at 2-2.

After a scoreless first half, Wilmington scored, as Michael Barletta got his first goal of the season. Wilmington kept up the pressure and scored again a few moments later, with Andrew Pagliarulo scoring on a scramble in front of the goal.

With a sudden onslaught of heavy rain, field conditions worsened and the boys watched Billerica score twice in the final three minutes to tie the score. The forward line of Erik Shaffer, Billy Bates, Matthew Callandrello and Mark Wallace played a fine game in this nicely played contest.

This past Saturday the team travelled to Concord, where they played extremely well to earn a come-from-behind 3-3 tie. Wilmington opened the scoring on a goal by Patrick Cahill. After Concord scored twice, Andrew Pagliarulo tied the score at 2-2. One more goal by Concord brought the score to 3-2 at the half.

The boys played their best in the second half, as Andrew Pagliarulo scored again to gain the 3-3 tie.

In addition to the strong goaltending of Michael Moore and Andrew Marmata, great hustle was shown by Craig Metcalfe, Joyn MacKinnon, Brian Surran, Michael Giordano and David Major.

Girls under 10

On Saturday, May 31, Wilmington journeyed to North Reading for its third encounter with first place North Reading. A victory could move the girls into first place. Midway into the first half, North Reading scored two goals within a two minute span. The Wilmington offense, led by Leanne Harris, Karen DeFrancesco, Mary Armata and Lisa DiPerri, kept applying pressure.

In the second half Wilmington got its only goal by Nancy Pote, with an assist from Laura DeMarco, but North Reading managed goals just before and after this Wilmington goal. The game ended at 5-1 despite the hard work of the Wilmington team.

Sunday June 1, Wilmington hosted Concord, and the final results were more favorable, with Wilmington winning, 4-1. The first goal came at the six minute mark on a great shot by Lori Laquidara, with the assist to Nancy Pote. Just five minutes later, Nancy Pote scored for Wilmington from the good pass of Shannon Jepson. The offense kept pressuring Concord, with super work from Amanda Zaya and Jackie Hayden. With only a few minutes left in the half, Nancy Pote scored her second goal, assisted by Jill Murphy.

Concord seemed to have no real good scoring chances due to the great defensive work of fullbacks Karen DeFrancesco, Lynnette Sbrano, Amy Hermann, Denise Langone and Anne Deislinger. The excellent goalkeeping of Mary Armata was equal to the test.

Halfway through the second half, Jaime Forgett scored on a beautiful feed from Lori Laquidara. Concord's only goal came with just seconds left in the game.

The team has an excellent 5-3 record so far. For all but one of these girls, this is their first attempt at traveling soccer with its demanding play. They have played so well together it's a joy to watch their enthusiasm on the field.

Boys under 14-II

After Billerica scored the first goal 10 minutes into the first period, Wilmington came alive. Led by the aggressive goaltending of Jason Oliver, Wilmington had its first goal scored by John Ciaramaglia, assisted by Mim Palman. The second goal was scored by Stephen Pepe, assisted by John Ciaramaglia. Before the end of the first half, Peter D'Amore scored assisted by Kevin Meehan.

Midfield was controlled by Anthony Vitale and Jimmy Kane. This win was a tribute to good soccer play, beating the opponent to the ball and playing position properly.

Boys under 12 II

The boys lost to a fast moving Woburn team. Having lost earlier in the season to Woburn by three goals, Wilmington played much better in this game, but still came up one goal short. Steve Burns scored the only Wilmington goal, taking a fine lead pass from John Burke.

David Dellascio, Beau Birmingham and Mike Peterson played well, clearing the ball into the Woburn end frequently. John Austin played well at the midfield position, intercepting several Woburn passes and converting them into Wilmington advantages. The final score read Woburn 2-Wilmington 1.

Girls under 14

The two Wilmington girls under 14 teams played this past Saturday, with an undermanned Wilmington I team defeating Wilmington II by a score of 4-0.

Wilmington II, led by some strong goaltending by Becky Powers, held Wilmington I to a scoreless tie at halftime. However, Ellen DeMarco scored her first two goals on a penalty kick and her second off a fine corner by Erin McKenna. The third goal was scored by Cara Scalesse off a fine pass by Andrea Ducey, while the fourth goal was scored by Erin McKenna from about 25 yards out.

Fine games were turned in by Lori Wheeler and Marissa Volpe at halfback and Michelle Zaya and Ann Marie Barletta at wings.

Boys Under 16

The boys played probably their best game of the year while going down to defeat to an overpowering Billerica team. Steven Killilea turned in an outstanding game in goal and received strong support from backs Jon Oliver, Jon Masse, Paul Wheeler and Chris Pozzi, along with halfbacks Adam Pagliarulo and Tim Penney. Jeff Botte turned in a couple of fine shots that were rejected by the Billerica goalie.

Boys Under 12 I

The boys continued their fine play with a convincing 4-0 victory over Bedford. Goals were scored by John Lynch, Brent Carbone, Jimmy

DeMarco and Derrick Stokes. Forwards Brian Wallace, Joey Catanzano, Gerard Forgett and Tom Zaya contributed solid performances. David Dussault and Christian Armata played excellent games at midfield, while fullbacks David Oatis, Tom Killilea and Chris DeFrancesco continued to control the defensive end of the field.

Goalkeepers John Martins, Eric Flynn and Brent Carbone teamed up for their sixth shutout, as the team registered its seventh win of the season.

Boys Under 10 II

The boys are back on the winning track with a big 2-0 win over Reading United this past weekend. The previous week's high hopes of defeating league leader North Reading were dashed resoundingly when they lost 4-0 at home last weekend. With some key players absent, the team still played very well, with good performances by Tim Peterson and Chris Gill at forward, Wes Dunham and Scott Wheeler at halfback, and ever steady Bryan Maleszyk at fullback (and second half goalie).

But this past week they were "singing in the rain" with a well-earned 2-0 victory over Reading United. Both goals came in the first half. The first was Sean O'Malley's fifth of the season, with a nice assist from forward Shawn Barden. Rich Barden scored again a few minutes later with a coaches dream pass from Eric Jones, who hit Rich perfectly with a pass across the middle. Steve Shawn and Chris Gill played the new position of stopper excellently, making all throw-ins and keeping play out of the Wilmington side.

David Maglio and Eric Jones tried their hand in the nets and did the job, keeping Reading scoreless. Paul Bruno and Bryan Maleszyk played very well at the forward positions. Being a forward for the first time ever (in three years) Bryan says he likes it. Again some good solid play by Ryan Hoffman, Michael Caira, Andy Kane, Scott Wheeler and Kevin O'Leary sealed the victory.

The boys played their best defensive game of the season this past weekend. They pulled out a 0-0 tie against the second place Winchester team, who had beaten them 2-1 earlier in the season.

The strong defense was led by goalies Rich Barden and Steven O'Neil, both of whom made several good saves in the first and second halves. Halfbacks Sean Ballou and Paul Bruno have been the core of the team, providing strength and speed up the middle where it counts.

This week Paul helped out a little at fullback. His play along with the strong goal kicks of Kevin O'Leary helped maintain the shutout.

Steve Shaw, who also plays well at halfback, came back and helped beef up the defense at fullback. Wes Dunham and Tim Peterson played well at forward and did generate some scoring chances. Ryan Hoffman and Eric Jones also turned in good performances at halfback. With two games left, the team is still working hard to keep its' undefeated streak going.

What you should know about wheel alignment - Part 2

We measure and adjust the alignment angles of each wheel to meet manufacturer's specifications.

Our computerized wheel alignment system offers the ultimate in precision operation. It relates all four wheels to a common centerline to insure precise alignment and a perfectly centered steering wheel.

For cars with adjustable rear suspensions, the rear wheels are adjusted so the thrust line (arrow in picture) coincides with the geometric centerline. The front wheels are then aligned relative to the thrust line / centerline. This sets all wheels straight ahead and parallel, and centers the steering wheel.

For cars with non-adjustable rear suspension, the rear wheel angles are measured to determine the thrust line (arrow in picture). The front wheels are then aligned relative to the thrust line. This sets all wheels parallel and centers the steering wheel.

Youth Soccer

Wilmington battles Billerica, 2-2

Unfortunately, this past weekend, was a complete washout for all the soccer teams, but the makeup games have all been scheduled for this week. The following are reports received from the coaches over the past two weeks.

Boys Under 10-I

The last two weeks have brought back-to-back ties to the boys under 10 team. On Saturday, May 24, the team played a tremendous game against Billerica, only to watch the visitors score two late goals to tie the game at 2-2.

After a scoreless first half, Wilmington scored, as Michael Barletta got his first goal of the season. Wilmington kept up the pressure and scored again a few moments later, with Andrew Pagliarulo scoring on a scramble in front of the goal.

With a sudden onslaught of heavy rain, field conditions worsened and the boys watched Billerica score twice in the final three minutes to tie the score. The forward line of Eirk Shaffer, Billy Bates, Matthew Callandrello and Mark Wallace played a fine game in this nicely played contest.

This past Saturday the team travelled to Concord, where they played extremely well to earn a come-from-behind 3-3 tie. Wilmington opened the scoring on a goal by Patrick Cahill. After Concord scored twice, Andrew Pagliarulo tied the score at 2-2. One more goal by Concord brought the score to 3-2 at the half.

The boys played their best in the second half, as Andrew Pagliarulo scored again to gain the 3-3 tie.

In addition to the strong goaltending of Michael Moore and Andrew Marmata, great hustle was shown by Craig Metcalfe, Joyn MacKinnon, Brian Surran, Michael Giordanno and David Major.

Girls under 10

On Saturday, May 31, Wilmington journeyed to North Reading for its third encounter with first place North Reading. A victory could move the girls into first place. Midway into the first half, North Reading scored two goals within a two minute span. The Wilmington offense, led by Leanne Harris, Karen DeFrancesco, Mary Armata and Lisa DiPerri, kept applying pressure.

In the second half Wilmington got its only goal by Nancy Pote, with an assist from Laura DeMarco, but North Reading managed goals just before and after this Wilmington goal. The game ended at 5-1 despite the hard work of the Wilmington team.

Sunday June 1, Wilmington hosted Concord, and the final results were more favorable, with Wilmington winning, 4-1. The first goal came at the six minute mark on a great shot by Lori Laquidara, with the assist to Nancy Pote. Just five minutes later, Nancy Pote scored for Wilmington from the good pass of Shannon Jepson. The offense kept pressuring Concord, with super work from Amanda Zaya and Jackie Hayden. With only a few minutes left in the half, Nancy Pote scored her second goal assisted by Jill Murphy.

Concord seemed to have no real good scoring chances due to the great defensive work of fullbacks Karen DeFrancesco, Lynnette Sbrano, Amy Hermann, Denise Langone and Anne Deislinger. The excellent goalkeeping of Mary Armata was equal to the test.

Halfway through the second half, Jaime Forgett scored on a beautiful feed from Lori Laquidara. Concord's only goal came with just seconds left in the game.

The team has an excellent 5-3 record so far. For all but one of these girls, this is their first attempt at traveling soccer with its demanding play. They have played so well together it's a joy to watch their enthusiasm on the field.

Boys under 14-II

After Billerica scored the first goal 10 minutes into the first period, Wilmington came alive. Led by the aggressive goaltending of Jason Oliver, Wilmington had its first goal scored by John Ciaramaglia, assisted by Mim Palman. The second goal was scored by Stephen Pepe, assisted by John Ciaramaglia. Before the end of the first half, Peter D'Amore scored assisted by Kevin Meehan.

Midfield was controlled by Anthony Vitale and Jimmy Kane. This win was a tribute to good soccer play, beating the opponent to the ball and playing position properly.

Boys under 12 II

The boys lost to a fast moving Woburn team. Having lost earlier in the season to Woburn by three goals, Wilmington played much better in this game, but still came up one goal short. Steve Burns scored the only Wilmington goal, taking a fine lead pass from John Burke.

David Dellascio, Beau Birmingham and Mike Peterson played well, clearing the ball into the Woburn end frequently. John Austin played well at the midfield position, intercepting several Woburn passes and converting them into Wilmington advantages. The final score read Woburn 2-Wilmington 1.

Girls under 14

The two Wilmington girls under 14 teams played this past Saturday, with an undermanned Wilmington I team defeating Wilmington II by a score of 4-0.

Wilmington II, led by some strong goaltending by Becky Powers, held Wilmington I to a scoreless tie at halftime. However, Ellen DeMarco scored her first two goals on a penalty kick and her second off a fine corner by Erin McKenna. The third goal was scored by Cara Scalesse off a fine pass by Andrea Ducey, while the fourth goal was scored by Erin McKenna from about 25 yards out.

Fine games were turned in by Lori Wheeler and Marissa Volpe at halfback and Michelle Zaya and Ann Marie Barletta at wings.

Boys Under 16

The boys played probably their best game of the year while going down to defeat to an overpowering Billerica team. Steven Killilea turned in an outstanding game in goal and received strong support from backs Jon Oliver, Jon Masse, Paul Wheeler and Chris Pozzi, along with halfbacks Adam Pagliarulo and Tim Penney. Jeff Botte turned in a couple of fine shots that were rejected by the Billerica goalie.

Boys Under 12 I

The boys continued their fine play with a convincing 4-0 victory over Bedford. Goals were scored by John Lynch, Brent Carbone, Jimmy

DeMarco and Derrick Stokes. Forwards Brian Wallace, Joey Catanzano, Gerard Forgett and Tom Zaya contributed solid performances. David Dussault and Christian Armata played excellent games at midfield, while fullbacks David Oatis, Tom Killilea and Chris DeFrancesco continued to control the defensive end of the field.

Goalkeepers John Martins, Eric Flynn and Brent Carbone teamed up for their sixth shutout, as the team registered its seventh win of the season.

Boys Under 10 II

The boys are back on the winning track with a big 2-0 win over Reading United this past weekend. The previous week's high hopes of defeating league leader North Reading were dashed resoundingly when they lost 4-0 at home last weekend. With some key players absent, the team still played very well, with good performances by Tim Peterson and Chris Gill at forward, Wes Dunham and Scott Wheeler at halfback, and ever steady Bryan Maleszyk at fullback (and second half goalie).

But this past week they were "singing in the rain" with a well-earned 2-0 victory over Reading United. Both goals came in the first half. The first was Sean O'Malley's fifth of the season, with a nice assist from forward Shawn Barden. Rich Barden scored again a few minutes later with a coaches dream pass from Eric Jones, who hit Rich perfectly with a pass across the middle. Steve Shawn and Chris Gill played the new position of stopper excellently, making all throw-ins and keeping play out of the Wilmington side.

David Maglio and Eric Jones tried their hand in the nets and did the job, keeping Reading scoreless. Paul Bruno and Bryan Maleszyk played very well at the forward positions. Being a forward for the first time ever (in three years) Bryan says he likes it. Again some good solid play by Ryan Hoffman, Michael Cairra, Andy Kane, Scott Wheeler and Kevin O'Leary sealed the victory.

The boys played their best defensive game of the season this past weekend. They pulled out a 0-0 tie against the second place Winchester team, who had beaten them 2-1 earlier in the season.

The strong defense was led by goalies Rich Barden and Steven O'Neil, both of whom made several good saves in the first and second halves. Halfbacks Sean Ballou and Paul Bruno have been the core of the team, providing strength and speed up the middle where it counts.

This week Paul helped out a little at fullback. His play along with the strong goal kicks of Kevin O'Leary helped maintain the shutout.

Steve Shaw, who also plays well at halfback, came back and helped beef up the defense at fullback. Wes Dunham and Tim Peterson played well at forward and did generate some scoring chances. Ryan Hoffman and Eric Jones also turned in good performances at halfback. With two games left, the team is still working hard to keep its undefeated streak going.

Major League A's 9 Red Sox 5

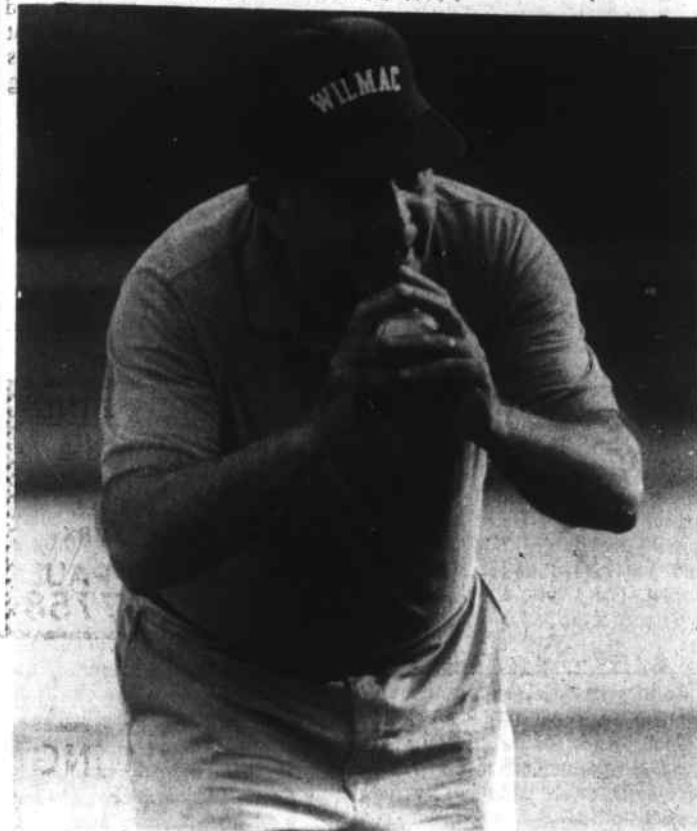

The A's defeated the Red Sox in a hard fought battle to take over first place in Major League action. The A's, led by the hitting of John Burke, Tom Zaya, Robbie Fales, Joey Catanzano, Danny Ballou, Kevin MacArthur and Bobby Fleming, held back a late inning rush by the Sox, who were led by Eric Creath, Brian Oxman, John Lynch and Matt LaCava. Judy O'Connell pitched sensationally in relief for the A's, while Oxman did an equally good job for the Red Sox.

What you should know about wheel alignment - Part 2

We measure and adjust the alignment angles of each wheel to meet manufacturer's specifications. Our computerized wheel alignment system offers the ultimate in precision operation. It relates all four wheels to a common centerline to insure precise alignment and a perfectly centered steering wheel.

For cars with adjustable rear suspensions, the rear wheels are adjusted so the thrust line (arrow in picture) coincides with the geometric centerline. The front wheels are then aligned relative to the thrust line / centerline. This sets all wheels straight ahead and parallel, and centers the steering wheel.

For cars with non-adjustable rear suspension, the rear wheel angles are measured to determine the thrust line (arrow in picture). The front wheels are then aligned relative to the thrust line. This sets all wheels parallel and centers the steering wheel.

Redmen gear for future

The Tewksbury High School baseball team just recently completed its 1986 season. The very young, talented team finished with a 7-43 won-lost record, but got the experience it hopes it needs for next year by starting five sophomores.

Head coach Bob Ware loses only four seniors from this year's roster. They are MVC All-Star OF-1B Greg Parke, .290 B.A., nine RBI's; captain Jeff Smith, on his way to Plymouth State College; OF Bob Briggs, and first year player Ronald Mueller.

Returning starters will be led by MVC All-Star sophomore catcher Chris Mader, .380 B.A., .521 on base percentage, and a MVC league leading 21 RBI's; next year's co-captain 3B Charlie Gath, .310 B.A., eight RBI's; sophomore 1B Jay Rideout, .295 B.A. and eight stolen bases, and three sophomore pitchers, starting with Doug (no hit) Boudreau, 3W-4L, 3.39 ERA; Pete Freund, 2W-0L, 4.00 ERA, and P-CF Tom Gallella, .350 ERA and some outstanding defense in the outfield which rounds out the staff.

Defensive standout and 1987 co-captain 3B-2B Pat Brooks, Jr. OF Jeff Larsen, sophomores OF Scott DeVivo and OF-1B Scott Niles (five hr's with the junior varsity) are the returning lettermen.

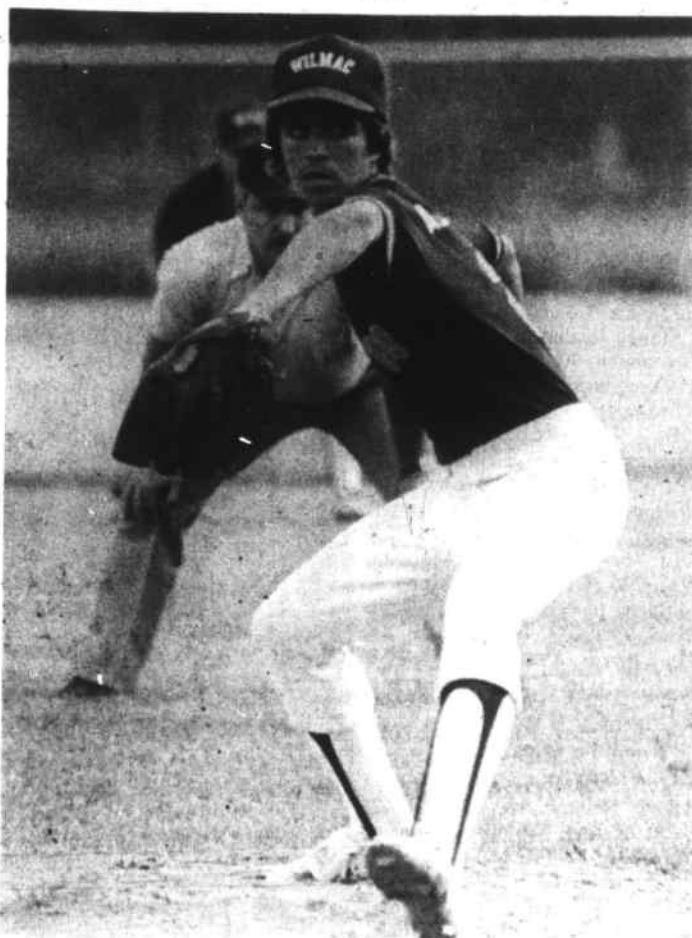

Another surprise was freshman 2B John Miller, who was brought up to the varsity during the last half of the season and hit .275 with an on-base percentage of .500 while playing outstanding defense.

Highlights of the season were Doug Boudreau's no-hitter of Lexington High School from the tough Middlesex League, and Mike McLaughlin's 2-1 victory over then seventh ranked in the state Methuen.

Catcher Chris Mader's three doubles and six RBI's vs Lexington and Charlie Gath's three-quarter against Andover, ripping with a single, double and triple.

Freshmen's 2B John Miller's outstanding defense against Billerica, handling 12 plays in the field without an error; catcher Chris Mader throwing out two for two in the same game against their fastest runners, who were only thrown out four times all year in 27 attempts, and pitcher Doug Boudreau's very tough 3-2 loss to Wilmington in 10 innings on two unearned runs.

With the Redmen having seven returning starters at the varsity level and some outstanding prospects on the junior varsity, head coach Bob Ware and assistant coach Guy Mader must certainly be looking forward to the 1987 baseball season.

Astro starter

Jay Hanafin is one of several former Wilmington High School players featured on coach Bob Dacey's WILMAC Astros. The Astros won their first game last week, defeating Augustine, 8-7.

now holding a slight half game edge.

Twins 5 Orioles 2

The Twins were led by Jimmy Ware, who had two base hits to bring home three runs. Good pitching was turned in by Matt McManus and David DeCenso. Tim O'Dea chipped in with a key RBI. Jackie Sullivan was excellent on the mound for the Orioles, while Derek Stokes played a great game defensively.

A's 13 Red Sox 9

The A's exploded for six runs in the top of the seventh, then held off a late Red Sox rush. The A's attack was powered by Adam Pagliarulo's three for three, Steve Kililea's two for three and Mark Kwiatkowski's homer in the sixth, sending home two runs. Paul DeFronzo scored twice on a single and a walk. Brian Harris and Brian Murray were also big contributors to the offense. The defense was led by Mark LaCava, CF, Brian Woods RF and Anthony Grassia in LF. (Grassia making the catch of the night on a long fly to left hit by Joey Malfa, which saved at least two runs.) For the Red Sox, who led 9-7 until the sixth inning, Greg Smith went two for two with two bases on balls (one intentional) to lead Joey Vieira (single, and BB) and Jeff Bowen, but it was not enough to overcome the A's eight hit attack.

Girls softball

Orange Crush 4 Sluggers 2

Angela Gage went the entire distance in pitching the Orange Crush to a 4-2 win over the Sluggers. Kristen Johnson in her catching debut did a great job behind the plate. The Crush was aided by a great double play by Michelle Vigliotti and Sarah Callahan to end the game. Offensively, the Orange Crush was led by the booming bat of Kara Swasey with two long hits. The aggressive base running of Donna Witthus provided the Crush with the winning run. Julie Robinson and Tina Kelly pitched very well for the Sluggers.

Minors

Giants 8 Phillies 6

Jeffrey McManus, two doubles and Marc Tower supplied the offense, while Jim Langenton's unassisted doubleplay, Scott Crowley, Derek O'Sullivan, Ken Bourinot and Bobby Young supplied the defense. Richard Murphy got his first RBI of the season.

Pirates 10 Phillies 3

Mike Alpers rapped single and a double while Jeffrey McManus boomed a homerun to pace the winners. Mike Patterson singled and continues to hit well. Bobby Young, Scott Crowley, Matt Canazza, Ken Bourinot, Derek O'Sullivan and Marc Power turned in good efforts defensively.

Astros 9 Braves 8

The Astro's scored six runs in the last inning to overcome a five run Braves' lead. Derek Soderquist and Randy Johnson pitched for the Braves, while Jeff Morin, Mike Moore and Erik O'Melia hurred for the Astros. Dennis Lee's bases clearing triple and singles by Mike Stanchi, Erik O'Melia and Steve Lipps capped a six run inning for the Astros. Outstanding catches by Dave and Doug Lanzillo in the fourth inning proved to be game savers.

Sluggers 10 Warriors 7

Once again that multi-talented and hard hitting team the Sluggers has prove that it can do it all. That was just what the Sluggers did by defeating the Warriors, 10-7. Tina Kelly pitched three fabulous innings for the Sluggers, and if that wasn't enough, she slammed a two-run homer in the bottom of the third inning. The Sluggers will now wait patiently until their next game on June 16 against the Rockets. With outstanding players like Jennifer MacDonald, Susan Errico, Erin Falzone and Stacey La Corcia, it should prove to be another Slugger "slugfest."

Cardinals 12 Astros 11

This was a batters' game, with both sides slugging away. For the winning Cardinals, the offense was Andrew Armata with two hits (single and double) that scored three runs, Charlie Kacamburas with a strong single, Brian Surran with a single and Brian Gargan with a strong blast to left field for a

Local trio set for star performance

Ninety high school all-star athletes from 75 eastern Massachusetts communities will be playing in the Eighth Annual Shriners High School Football Classic June 21 at Harvard Stadium. This major fundraiser helps support the 22 Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children in North America.

Tewksbury High School coach Bob Aylward will lead the North Stars that will include TMHS quarterback Rob Aylward and linebacker Bob Dunlay, two of the leaders on the Division II Super Bowl championship squad.

The North squad will also feature Wilmington High School standout fullback Tony Cutone, who earned the title of best back in the conference in 1985.

Kickoff time is 4 p.m. and tickets are $4.00 at the door; $3.00 for advance purchases; and $2.00 for block tickets of 50 or more.

A parade with more than 500 Shriners from Massachusetts and Rhode Island will kickoff the game festivities at 3 p.m. More than 300 cheerleaders from Eastern Massachusetts will join the Shriners parade. The parade is scheduled to begin at the Commons in Harvard Square, proceed over the Harvard Bridge and into the stadium. The halftime show will include a special Shriners drill team and the Boston Drum & Bugle Corps exhibition.

In addition to sports fans and family members of the players, scouts eyeing the next superstars for their teams will fill the stands. Many of the players chosen for the Shriners game, such as Doug Flutie, have gone on to become outstanding college and professional athletes.

The Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children are known throughout the world for their free and outstanding medical care for both crippled and burned children. Locally, the Shriners Burns Institute is recognized as one of the foremost facilities of its kind.

None of the Shriners hospitals accept payment from the patients' families or insurance companies, nor do they accept grants from the government. All funds come from free-will donations and from events such as the Football Classic.

For further information on the game call Harold Foley at the Aleppo Temple, Wilmington, Ma., 665-6466. If you would like to purchase advance tickets, you may send a check or money order ($3.00 per ticket) to Shriners Football, P.O. Box 11, Wilmington, Ma. 01887, or call Teletron at 1-800-382-8080 or 617-720-3434.

The Outdoors Column

by Bill Conlon

All hail the lowly frog!
Those midnight serenaders that have frightened little girls and school marms since the dawn of time have yet a higher purpose in life.

They make superb bait.
Bass and pickerel just can't resist a meal of fresh frog legs, provided the rest of the frog is attached. Frogs make such good bait, in fact, that the state has placed limitations on their use.

As of this year, bait frogs must be 2 1/2 inches long or less, nose to vent, except for leopard frogs (better known as green leapers, available in better meadows everywhere) which are always long, lean items.

Also, no more than 10 frogs of legal size may be in possession at any time and they aren't for sale.

There is a good reason for all this, of course. Bigger frogs breed, while the smaller specimens just add bulk to the tag end of the food chain.

Since frogs can't be sold, how do you get them? Well, you can either dangle a fishing fly in front of their noses, which works, or catch them by hand.

My favorite way to catch frogs (brace yourself) is to get right down there with 'em. By moving slowly enough I can usually get one hand almost underneath the little croaker before lashing out and grabbing it. (P.S. I also keep one eye peeled for snakes. They hunt frogs, too.)

The two preferred ways to set up frogs for business are to run the hook through the nose or through the thigh. I prefer the nose because a thigh-hooked frog tends to spin on the retrieve.

Fishing with frogs is remarkably simple. It's called cast and forget.

Toss the frog somewhere near shore (never in deep water) and sit back. Give it a twitch now and then, but don't make the frog look terrified. If a fish takes an interest in your lazy frog, you'll know -- believe me.

I lost a hook, a frog and about ten feet of line one summer night while fishing a frog on Peter's Pond in Dracut with my old buddy, Don Dery.

The frog, sadly, had expired. But since the hook ran through the pointy end of the frog, the movement was close enough to natural.

Anyway, my partner and I were parked next to shore and casting out to the moonlit pads. I started to bring the frog back to the boat when something yanked back, hard. The drag on my reel screamed for a few seconds before the unseen monster, probably a bass, made it to the pads and that was all she wrote.

Now I use a heavy line when I fish with frogs. I still haven't found that mystery bass, but I will. Someday.

-- Tackle Box --

Good luck to those taking part in Saturday's fishing derby at Silver Lake in Wilmington. The derby will benefit eye research and begins at 9 a.m.

Coors beer is sponsoring a canoe race on Saturday, June 14, to benefit the March of Dimes. The race will be on the Merrimack from Lawrence to the Crescent Yacht Club in Bradford. Sign-ups begin Thursday and more info may be had by calling 475-0100.

There will be a Gun Owners Action League (GOAL) rally at the Statehouse in Boston on Monday, June 16, at 9 a.m., to draw attention to House bill H.1695, which seeks to establish uniform rules for the issuance of firearms permits. About 5,000 attended a similar rally last year.

The Greater Lowell Fly Fishers will hold their annual overnight tournament on the Merrimack on June 21 and 22. Top prizes for bass, pickerel and carp will be $500 each. (A $500 carp? Yup.) More on this next week or by calling 251-4530.

triple that scored three runs. The key play of the game was an Astros' fielders' choice to firstbase to score the winning run for the Cards by Brian Surran. The Astros' hitting was led by Jeff Morrin with three hits (single, double and triple), while Mike Giordanno contributed a single to rightfield to score two runs. Outstanding defense by the Astros came from Mike Moore, Erik O'Melia, David Lanzillo and John Bussell.

Cardinals 7 Braves 5

The Cards' pitching staff of Greg Hill, Pete Cunningham and E.J. Merrill kept the Braves down to three hits in a well played game. Randy Johnson, Herb Mason, Steve Walsh and Derek Soderquist led the way. For the Cards, a key triple by Jody Murray scored three runs and a single by Scott Audette in the top of the fifth inning to score Brian Surran from second base was key to the win. Other offensive contributions came from E.J. Merrill, Andrew Pagliarulo and Peter Cunningham. Defensively, Adam Holt played a great game in his new position as catcher.

Cardinals 8 Giants 6

The strong bats of Andrew Armata, Andrew Pagliarulo and Scott Audette put the first tallies up for the Cards. Key hits by Mike Pastore, Brian Gargan and Peter Cunningham contributed to the score. Greg Hill pitched a no-hitter for three innings, with E.J. Merrill coming in strong in relief. Defensively, the Cards were led by Adam Holt at the catcher position, Charlie Kacamburas at third base and Tommy George and Mike Pastore at right and center fields. The Giants' offensive game was led by Greg Maiella with a three-run homer in the fourth inning to bring the Giant's into range. Key hitting was supplied by Andy Bower, Rod MacDonald and Brendon Rogers.

Meeting

The annual general meeting for the Tewksbury Youth Hockey Association will be held Wednesday, June 17, 1986 at 8 p.m. at the Tewksbury Town Hall.

Included on the agenda will be elections for open positions on the Board of Directors. All parents are urged to attend.

Painting class

Last week we interviewed a teacher for our painting class. She will be teaching water and oil painting at the Center. It will take us some time to get all the necessary materials and supplies to start the classes. Therefore we have scheduled the teacher to start in September with between six and eight students.

National Velvet

The first movie afternoon will be at the Buzzell Senior Center on School Street next to the common Thursday, June 13 beginning at 1:30. The movie will be one of the all time classic films "National Velvet." If you have a special movie you would like to see give the name of it to Louise at the office. We are open to suggestions.

Bridge class

The bridge class started Tuesday in the craft room at the Center. If you want to learn and could not make it last Tuesday, go next Tuesday and join the class.

Keeping active

The purpose of the programs implemented by the Council is to get all of us actively involved, socializing with your peers making new friends, while learning a new skill. We are still in the process of getting up classes in candy making and light woodworking, along with preparing for a beano game.

Arts and crafts picnic

The arts and crafts annual picnic will be held in July this year. The date has not been set as to this newsletter. It is hoped to have it the last week of July. The meal will be similar to last year, barbecued chicken with the trimmings. It will be held at the Tewksbury/Wilmington picnic grounds. A $1.00 non-refundable deposit will be required when signing up. This money will be used by the committee to purchase prizes for a raffle. Sign up will begin Thursday, June 13.

Therapeutic social

Wednesday, August 13, the Council on Aging therapeutic social will be "The Spirit of Boston Harbor Cruise." It will be a two hour cruise with dinner served on board. The meal will be lobster, clams, corn on the cob. For those who do not like lobster and clams, chicken, beef or tuna will be served. Tossed and potato salad, watermelon and coffee will also be served. Entertainment will be held after the dinner. A $5.00 non-refundable deposit will be requested when signing up starting this Thursday.

We have been receiving many calls on the DRG's. What can an elderly person do if they are being released from a hospital before they are strong enough to care for themselves? What can we do about the changes in Medicare, Social Security, Medicaid, and SSI. To get the answers to all of our questions, we have invited an aid to Congressman Edward Markey to visit the Center. She will have with her the answers to these question and any other question which may be plaguing you about elderly programs which are being cut or phased out of the administration's budget this year. It would be wise for all of us to get this important information first hand by attending this session on Thursday afternoon June 26, in the function room of the Buzzell Senior Center starting at 1:30 p.m.

Accident with an officer

Wendy J. Monroe, 16, of 25 Faulkner Ave., Wilmington was involved in an accident at Church and Adams streets in Wilmington Tuesday morning. She had just started up from the stop sign on Adams Street when her car collided with another. And who was driving that other car? Safety Officer Robert Shelley. The young lady was cited for failure to use care in starting.

Shelley's car, though not heavily damaged, was towed to avoid additional harm to the car. The person lying under the car is the tow truck driver.

Education keeps economy afloat

By JOHN C. HOY

From the largest private campus in the United States, Northeastern University in Boston (54,000 students,) to tiny Marlboro College in Vermont (225,) New England higher education annually offers 800,000 students the nation's richest collegiate and graduate-degree options.

In return, New England's economic resurgence is based on the quality of both the graduates and the research produced by its 260 colleges and universities.

As Harvard prepares to celebrate its 350th anniversary as an unsurpassed international center of scholarship and research, other campuses throughout New England continue to take stock of the prospects and challenges confronting the academic community of a very small region of the country whose financial health and dynamic economic growth are based upon a world-class knowledge industry.

Higher education is a $6 billion business in New England. As the six-state area continues to experience the lowest regional rate of unemployment and the highest level of personal income in the U.S., the migration of well-educated people from across the nation to this appealing region may well accelerate.

PART TWO

When we were finished laughing, I said, "You must be a big sports fan."

"I used to play." His reply seemed strange. When he sat down he appeared to be no taller than five-eleven, and he surely weighed no more than one-seventy-five. I asked him if he meant high school or college.

"Played college and then pro."

As a bartender you are forever being told tall tales, so when he said he'd played professional football my first reaction was one of skepticism. But his guy was drinking OJ, remember. He could tell I was unbelieving.

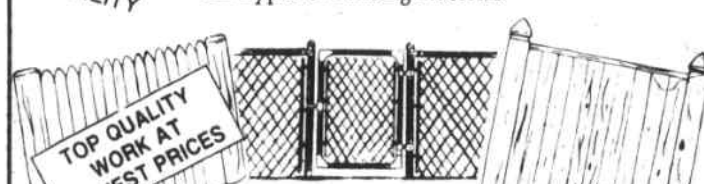

"No, I'm not kidding. My eyes followed him as they glanced

INGROWN TOENAILS

Ingrown toenails are one of the most common complaints that cause people to seek the attention of a Podiatrist. This disorder is usually caused by an inherited abnormal curvature along the sides of the toenail; thickening of the nails as seen with a fungal toenail infection; and is aggravated by shoe gear. Rarely it may be caused by a bone spur pressing on the underside of the nail.

Following a thorough examination we will discuss our findings and treatment modalities. Correction is usually aimed at removal of the offending portion of nail and eliminating any infection that may be present. These procedures are done in the office, operating under local anesthesia. New techniques allow faster recovery and earlier return to normal daily activities with minimal post operative discomfort.

It is important to remember that people with impaired circulation to the feet and lower legs are more prone to infections caused by ingrown toenails. These people should seek prompt treatment for their foot problems. Periodic foot examinations are recommended to help prevent any future foot problems.

If you would like to become involved in any of these exciting programs, please contact Ann-Marie Krol at the Lung Association at 272-2866.

Childbirth seminar

June 17

Physical and emotional support for labor and delivery is the subject of the next childbirth seminar at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham, June 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. Using a team approach, the physical support segment will teach expectant moms how to be comfortable in the labor situation and cover positions, techniques, variation and control.

The emotional support segment explores parental expectations, partner involvement, verbal and non-verbal emotional support, and problem prevention.

The physical support half of the seminar will be led by Georgianna K. Sozanski, R.N. of Topsfield, who is a Lamaze expert. She also teaches nursing fundamentals at Bay Community College in Wellesley.

The emotional support portion will be led by Fredda Simon Gordon of Newton who is a registered occupational therapist. She is also a teacher and lecturer on childbirth education for McLean Hospital.

For more information on the labor and delivery support seminar, call Pam Dawson at New England Memorial Hospital 665-1740, ext. 460.

New England's knowledge industry

contrary to gloomy predictions of demographic decline just a decade ago.

New England is poised to become a region of the future, particularly if quality education remains high on the agenda, and if public and private resources support expanding educational opportunity.

How productive this region is, is shown dramatically in the chart on this page. New England, with only 5.3 percent of the U.S. population, has 9 percent of the nation's colleges and universities. The region educates professionals in numbers well beyond its share of the national population.

This achievement provides a unique regional concentration of advanced professional manpower in cutting-edge fields essential to the high-technology, high-service industries New England has developed.

The capacity of the region to produce highly skilled professional men and women in numbers far out of proportion to its modest population base is the result of a number of factors:

—Resident enrollment has been supplemented by those who migrate here to attend college in New England — 25 percent enroll from other states.

—The region attracts 7 percent, or 23,500 of the most qualified 350,000 foreign students enrolled in the U.S. International education should continue to grow.

—The balance between New England public (50 percent) and independent (50 percent) campus enrollment is apparently unique in the world, let alone in the U.S., where overall enrollment is divided 80 percent to 20 percent in the favor of public education. This balance encourages an exceptional range of educational options.

—The enrollment of women in higher education sets a national standard: Women comprise 53 percent of New England undergraduate enrollment, 40 percent of the entering classes in regional law schools and medical schools.

—The concentration of university research centers, institutes, and laboratories provides a variety of national models of campus-industry partnerships, the results of which are the envy of the industrialized world.

—With the showdown in federal support of higher education, New England state governments are devoting public revenues to education at record levels.

The financial pressures facing higher education have increased collaboration between public and private colleges and universities. As a result, higher education policy will become increasingly regional.

—Regional, because no single state can effectively meet the specialized educational, research, and public service needs of a society that is economically dependent upon advanced higher-education resources.

—Regional, because the people of New England are among the most educationally mobile of U.S. population groups and migrate actively within the six states to pursue their educational and career goals.

—Regional, because the industries that lead the emerging economy are often those with a presence in more than one state, and this trend continues.

—Regional, because present and future demands for housing, medical care, transportation, environmental quality, financial investment, and technical expertise do not respect state boundaries.

For 100 years, each New England state has had a public land-grant university. Today, due to land-grant leadership, all 83 public two and four year campuses share their resources through an interstate regional program that permits students from any New England state to enroll in one of 800 degree programs if a desired program is for some reason unavailable in the home state.

From forestry at the University of Maine to oceanographic engineering at the University of Rhode Island, 60,000 qualified students have enrolled in the New England Regional Student Program (NERSP), the nation's foremost model of interstate cooperation in higher education. Some 90 percent of NERSP graduates elect to live and work in New England.

We mustn't lose sight of the primary role educational excellence and regional collaboration will continue to play in meeting tomorrow's challenges.

Wakefield's choice real estate

By JIM ROUILLARD

Lake Quannapowitt is not a lake.

And you cannot live on its surface.

Unless, of course, you hail from the family of duck, goose or the silver swan.

There are a few members of the family of man who dwell on the banks of Wakefield's shimmering jewel, which is by legal definition merely a "great pond." And those lucky few are closer than the rest of us to the peace of Quannapowitt, and the beauty of its willows, waves and wildlife.

In warmer weather, sunfish and sailfish abound on the water's surface.

Posted signs imply the presence of tiger muskie and northern pike, and some people even suggest that the town should breed seacows.

Quannapowitt does not mean "peaceful waters," or, as far as is known, anything particularly poetic in any Indian tongue.

The 254 acre body of water, which once was known as "Redding's Great Pond," was named for a 17th-century Indian, Christian and spy.

Quannapowitt (as lake) is currently known throughout the region for the year-round recreation which it provides. In summer there may be swimming, sailing, fishing, and concerts from the bandstand. The roads and paths around the lake are a mecca for walkers, joggers, strollers and bicyclists eager to race or to amble.

The large raised great pond has been from colonial times available to every citizen in the commonwealth, for fishing and fowling. Since 1649, legal use of the water by any citizen has come to include, along with fair weather usage, ice-boating, ice-fishing, skating or riding upon the ice, "taking water for domestic or agricultural purposes or for use in the arts, and the taking and cutting of ice."

A place, in the past, for the floating strains of big band music and seasonal holiday festivals, for fireworks and fireflies, the lake and its use have been subject to controversy and some community turmoil over the years, and all may never be totally placid, above or beneath the waters.

The lake, which according to Barbara Lohrey, deservedly "gives to Wakefield center the reputation of being unsurpassed for beauty in all the area," by the 1960s "was fast becoming a fetid, weed-filled bog, offensive to sight and smell."

A field survey of the weed problem in the lake revealed the presence of plants, like water shield and arrowhead, whose handsome but martial names

CANADA GEESE though friendly, may hiss if approached too closely, which means take warning. Officials discourage feeding of increasing wildfowl on banks of Wakefield's Lake Quannapowitt.

AKC DOG SHOW

The North Shore Kennel Club will host the largest dog show on the North Shore on Saturday, June 14 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the grounds of the Masconomet High School, Endicott St., Boxford, Mass. Over 1000 dogs will compete for championship points in conformation and obedience at the day-long event. There will also be competition for junior handlers ages 10 to 16 years old.

Come join us to see your favorite breeds and some rare ones as well. Talk to the breeders and trainers and watch the action as the tension builds toward the "Best In Show" and "High In Trial" awards.

Masconomet High School is easily located just east of the Endicott Street exit of Route 1-95, 20 minutes north of Boston. Admission to the all-day event is $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children under 12. Parking is free and lunch and catalogs of the event are available. There will also be many concessions carrying dog-related items to browse through. Only dogs previously entered for competition will be admitted to the grounds. For more information call (617) 927-0423.

MARKET SQUARE

The Market Place in Ipswich, is sponsoring their annual Market Square Days. This event will take place on Thursday, June 19 through Sunday, June 22. (Rain date is Thursday, June 26 through Sunday, June 29). We will be exhibiting Arts & Crafts along the sidewalk. Also entertainment for the children. Oscars Restaurant will have food available. Rental space available call Janet at 356-5890 evenings. Very festive event.

PHOTOGRAPHY WORKSHOP

Getting the best and the most from your 35 mm camera will be the subject of day-long workshop on Saturday, June 21 at Merrimack College.

Kevin Salemm, a professional photographer and director of media services at Merrimack, will be the instructor of the workshop, which begins at 9 a.m. and concludes at 4 p.m. All aspects of picture-taking will be discussed and illustrated, including lenses, types of film, shutter speeds F-stops, and lighting.

Participants should bring their 35 mm camera equipment, as well as some of their own photographs for critique by the instructor. The cost of the workshop is $40, which includes lunch.

Further information is available from the Merrimack College Special Programs Office, North Andover, Mass. 01845. Phone 683-1175.

Discover a particularly fine selection at the 12th Annual Plant Sale at the Garden in the Woods, New England Wild Flower Society's headquarters, Hemenway Road, Framingham on Saturday, June 14, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Over 150 varieties of wildflowers including Cardinal Flowers, Black-eyed Susans, Hepaticas, and Butterfly Weed are for sale from the Garden's collection or donated by friends.

In addition, there are excellent garden perennials such as Bleeding Hearts, Primroses, Astilbes, Irises, ornamental grasses, and ground covers (including Cotoneasters and Junipers). Sales of annuals, rock-garden plants, houseplants, and shrubs round out this special event.

For information/events (617) 877-6574; or office 877-7630, 237-4924.

CRAFTFAIR

The ACC Craftfair West Springfield celebrates 21 years of fine crafts in New England. The fair will be held June 20 - 22 at the Eastern States Exposition.

Over 450 craftspeople from throughout the United States and, as an added feature, 19 craft artists invited from France will be exhibiting their handmade contemporary objects. At the fair, visitors will find fine jewelry and fashion, hand-painted silks and woven wearables, blown glass, whimsical toys, ceramic and meal sculpture, porcelain dinnerware, and decorative objects of the home and office. From traditional to post modern design, the ACC Craftfair exhibits the country's largest collection of fine quality contemporary collectables.

Hours for the ACC Craftfair are Friday, June 20, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Saturday, June 21, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sunday, June 22, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Eastern States Exposition is easily accessible from Interstate 91 and the Mass. Pike. Admission is $4.00; children under 12 are free. Food is available on the grounds and there are acres of free parking. For more information, call (413) 787-0140.

EVERGREEN PROGRAM

Boston University's Evergreen Program offers people 60 and over the opportunity to participate in all credit courses offered at the University on a space-available basis for $10 per course. Registration for Summer Session II, July 1 - August 9, begins Wednesday, June 25. To register, come into the Office for Continuing Education, 755 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Room B3, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information call (617) 353-4130.

GEM & MINERAL SHOW

Amethyst, Citrine, Tiger-eye, Onyx, Adventurine — such words conjure up sparkling images of treasure troves of the ancients, or chests of booty trapped in the holds of pirate ships sun at sea. But did you know that these gemstones, along with others such as Carnelian, Jasper, and Agate, are in fact all part of one family of minerals, the Quartz group. This diversity of beauty may be seen on exhibit as the theme of the 23rd annual New England Gem & Mineral Show to be held at the Masconomet Regional Center, Saturday and Sunday, June 14 and 15.

In addition to exhibits and demonstrations, 27 dealers from around the country will feature a variety of gemstones, minerals and jewelry. Hours for the show will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is $2 (Senior Citizens-50 cents, Children under 12 accompanied by an adult are free). The Masconomet Regional Center is located off the Endicott Road Exit on Route 95 in Topsfield, Mass.

SMOKERS IN TRANSITION

Have you quit smoking? We have the support you're looking for! "Smokers in Transition" is a self-help support group sponsored by the American Lung Association of Middlesex County. The next meeting will be held June 15 from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the Conference Room, Choate Memorial Hospital, Woburn.

SUMMER SCHOOL CHORUS

The Harvard Summer School Chorus will hold auditions for its 1986 season on June 21 through 23 at Harvard University. Under the direction of Beverly Taylor, the oratorio chorus of 150 voices is newly formed each summer.

Open to the community, auditions will take place on June 21 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.; Sunday, June 22 from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.; and Monday, June 23 from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. in Paine Hall, Harvard University. A good ear, strong sense of rhythm, vocal richness and flexibility are sought; sight reading ability is encouraged.

Each Tuesday and Thursday evening, rehearsals will be held from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in Sanders Theatre, Harvard University. Rehearsals begin Tuesday, June 24.

A concert in Sanders Theatre is scheduled for Friday, August 8 at 8 p.m. The chorus will perform Brahms German Requiem with professional soloists and members of the Harvard Chamber Orchestra.

Further information about the Harvard Summer School Chorus is available by calling the Harvard Summer School at 495-2925.

PMS

The Eastern Middlesex PMS (Pre-menstrual Syndrome) support group will meet Thursday, June 19, 7 to 9 p.m. at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham.

The support group will be headed by Lauria Nugent, a nurse practitioner working with Dr. Richard McDowell, an NEMH obstetrician and gynecologist. Women who share the problem of PMS are invited to attend.

For additional information, contact the Health Education office at NEMH at 665-1740, ext. 426.

GENEALOGY

The Middlesex Chapter of the Massachusetts Society of Genealogists will meet Saturday, June 14th at 1:30 p.m. at the Belmont Public Library, Belmont.

MEDIEVAL FESTIVAL

Come to Hammond Castle and relive the merriment of a time long past. On the Castle's front lawn, medieval crafts will be displayed, and a variety of festive food and drink will be sold by fetching wenches. On Saturday, June 21, Alexander the Jester will be on hand to entertain the little ones, and on Sunday, Merlyn the Magician will unveil the mysteries of ages past. Inside private booths, fortune-tellers will grant insight to your future — once you've crossed their palms with silver! Music and games will be provided by the "New English Song and Daunce Companie," and gallant knights will demonstrate

GRAPHIC ARTS SCHEDULE

For the first time, the Graphic Arts Program, Northeastern University's Center for Continuing Education, will expand its schedule to offer courses in the summer. Courses, seminars and workshops will be offered in advertising, publishing, graphic design, graphic arts management, and production and manufacture.

Courses are scheduled during the ten-week term beginning the week of June 23 at Northeastern's Dedham, Boston, and Burlington campuses. In addition, there will be an introductory and an advanced course offered in Phototypesetting at the Dedham campus.

AUSTIN ALUMNI ASSOCIATION ... Michael Guanci, Thomas Fitzgerald, Steve Higgins, Rusty Jordan, Sean Haggerty, Ed Locke, and Steve Finn were among the members of the Class of 1986 who attended Austin Prep's

Senior/Alumni Communion Breakfast. The event marks the initiation of this year's seniors into the Austin Alumni Association. The address was given by the Rev. James Flynn, O.S.A. (Photo by G. Mackiewicz)

A sampling of the seminars and workshops to be held include a two-day seminar on Direct Mail, scheduled in Dedham on June 27 and 28; a two-day seminar on How To Promote Your Small Business, scheduled in Dedham on June 14 and 16 and again on September 12 and 19; a two-day seminar scheduled for two Saturdays in Boston, Newsletter Planning and Preparation on July 12 and 19; and a one-day workshop, Typesetting Technology, Techniques and Trends, scheduled in Dedham on October 2, 1986.

For further information and a complete course schedule, contact the Graphic Arts Program, Northeastern University's Center for Continuing Education, 370 Common Street, Dedham, Ma. 02026, phone (617) 329-8000.

Drum and bugle corps holds afternoon show

The Citations Drum and Bugle Corps of Burlington cordially invite all to attend an afternoon of splendid music, precision drill, and spectacular color on Sunday, June 22. The event will take place, beginning at 1 P.M. at the Burlington High School Athletic Field, located approximately 1/2 mile north of Rte. 128 on Rte. 3A.

This year the Citations will be fielding two units, the Class A corps and the Citations Juniors Class C corps. Both corps are coming off extremely successful 1985 campaigns. The Class A contingent to EMASS circuit honors and finished fourth in a national competition held in Allentown, Pa., where over thirty corps from the U.S. and Canada competed. The Juniors tied for first place in the EMASS Class C championship. Both corps feature exciting color guards that also have just completed their Winter Guard competitive season. The Class A guard finished sixth in the International Competition in Dayton, Ohio where the top 40 units from the U.S. and Canada competed. The Junior guard also had a successful season, finishing a strong third in the circuit.

This year's Citations musical program offers a variety of tunes that range from the popular "Only In Miami," "We're All Alone," and "Country," to the jazz piece "Johnny One Note," and even a classical sounding "On the Green."

Some of the other corps competing at this show will be last year's DCI East Class A Champs (in the under 60 member category), the Weymouth Sanctians, the Suburbanettes and Granite State Garrison of New Hampshire, Saint Anthony's Band, Treadors, Satellites, Explorers, Kidettes, and the Braintree Braves.

So for a very pleasant summer Sunday afternoon, grab your sunglasses and tanning lotion and come on over to the Burlington High School and enjoy an entertaining program of music, choreography and color.

Our average patient loses over 85 pounds.

-150,000 people have participated in The OPTIFAST SM Program of weight loss. 80% lost 40 pounds or more with an average loss of 85 pounds.

But, even more encouraging news is the fact that many people accomplish the most important part of The OPTIFAST Program, long-term weight loss.

Why is The OPTIFAST Program different?

The doctors who administer the program realize that obesity is a disease.

Throughout the program, you receive unequalled medical support.

If you are more than 30% overweight, please call 471-7705 and receive details about The OPTIFAST Program.

Roving

down at his midsection. "I've lost a lot of weight in the last few years. Injured my back while playing, and I've been sort of sick lately. Feel pretty good now though, but I have my days. Yeah, I used to weigh two-thirty-five when I played linebacker for the New York Jets."

I studied his face as he spoke, trying to see if I could recognize a younger, stronger player I might have known at one time, but came up blank. Something prompted me to extend a hand and formally introduce myself. He told me his name. Being a sports fan, I vaguely recalled hearing his name during my college days.

He went on, "In fact, I played on the '69 Superbowl team." That was where I'd heard his name. He flashed a ring, which sure as heck looked like a championship ring, in my face. "I'm staying here for a while. Having some tests done over at the Lahey."

"So you played with Broadway Joe, huh?"

He let me have a gander at those upper bicuspid again and said, "You bet. We were good friends. Still talk to him now and then."

I told him that I'd met Namath myself once, at a bar in Boston called Daisy Buchanan's, back when he and Derek Sanderson hung out together, then left him long enough to take care of two more people who'd just walked in and sat down at the bar. I returned to Billy.

"I own a piece of a bar myself," he said. "In California. Different from this, of course. More casual. But nice too. The kind of place where the owner tends bar."

I knew he'd left a big tip for a reason other than to make small talk. People who tip like that generally understand what it's like to earn a living from tips. For the next hour we continued to talk about pro football and the bar business. At one point, Billy pulled out his wallet and showed me a photograph of himself in his New York Jets football jersey.

Couldn't believe I was looking at the same guy. In spite of all the years that had passed, I could still recognize some of his facial features, but I had to probe deeply. If I had not been looking so hard, I would have taken the guy in the picture for a totally different person. His hair was chopped down to crewcut length, and his neck was at least two inches thicker. His cheeks were puffy with youth, the kind of youth that you know has been doing a lot of strenuous working out. And then there was that damned toothy smile. There was no mistaking that. It hadn't changed a bit in all those years, which surprised me.

"How'd you manage to keep all your teeth?" I asked, handing back the photo, which he slipped back into his wallet. He placed the wallet back into his jeans. "Don't linebackers have a tough time protecting their jaws?"

"Yeah, being a linebacker was rough, all right. There were many times when I had my bell rung. One time I hit a guy so hard in the second quarter that I didn't remember what happened for the rest of the game."

Another hour passed. More stories about his years as a player. I learned that Billy had graduated from UCLA in the mid-sixties after spending two years at San Diego State. Jack Madden had been his coach at San Diego State, and Joe Gibbs had been his roommate. He played with Fred Dryer, the former Los Angeles Ram who is currently starring in the tv series "Hunter."

By the time he finished telling his story I was impressed. "You're quite a guy, Billy," I told him. By now he'd gone through three glasses of orange juice and at least the same number of cups of coffee. Black, lots of sugar. He seemed to thrive on the sugar high. Meanwhile, business in the bar was beginning to pick up. It was getting harder and harder for us to carry on our conversation.

"You're getting busy," he said, adding, "and I've got to go. Places to go and people to see, as they say. In fact, I'm going over to Winchester to visit an old friend."

He said the name, and I instantly recognized it as belonging to a local sports hero from out of the past. He said, "I'll be here for a while, so I'll be back," and then he left. As swiftly and coolly as he had arrived, leaving behind memories of a glorious past, which I'd felt privileged to have shared so intimately.

Billy did come back. Over the next few months he returned regularly, usually on weekends. He knew it would be quiet and he could share more intimate stories about his football days. I was always an eager listener. When he wasn't telling a story, he was cracking a joke. Always to either me or another member of the staff. I rarely saw him speak to other customers. He became what you would call a "regular," but in that western garb, he appeared more like a loner. One thing was certain: when he wanted to, he could fit in with anybody. I learned this aspect of his personality as I watched him banter back and forth with the other bartenders.

As time went by, I began to notice that Billy didn't appear to look well. His skin took on a sallow look, and his eyes appeared tired and the sockets blackened. I would ask him if he felt O.K., but he'd brusquely cast off the query with a terse statement like "Yeah, I'm doing fine."

Sometimes he'd let his conversations drift over to the subject of the Lahey visits. I kept getting the impression that things weren't as rosy as Billy made them seem. Indeed my gut instinct proved correct. He finally confided in me that he wasn't feeling well at all, and that he was now embroiled in a heated battle with the NFL over benefits. His back injury was kicking up, and now there was the chance that something more serious could be wrong. He would never say what exactly, just that something wasn't right inside. More tests were needed, and it would be a while before he knew what treatments had to be done.

Billy and I became close friends over the following year, the time during which he continued to frequent the Lahey Clinic for tests. Our friendship remained within the confines of the bar, but that never interfered with the growth of our bond. He didn't seem to want to make a lot of friends, but the ones he did make were obviously important to him.

That was the last thought that crossed my mind before my co-worker from the bar nudged my arm again. We finally went inside to the kitchen. The others sensed something was not right. In the light of the kitchen I could see that the statue was actually a figure of an old, overweight football player. He wore a big handlebar mustache and had the pigskin tucked under his arm.

I set the statue onto the table, and removed the note from around its neck. The note was encased in a piece of plastic, as if Billy had wanted it to last forever. It read:

MAY THE WIND ALWAYS BE AT YOUR BACK, AND MAY YOU BE IN HEAVEN TWO HOURS BEFORE THE DEVIL KNOWS YOU DIED.

YOUR FRIEND, BILLY

A thick stream of perspiration trickled down my back and settled in a wet patch just above my coccyx. It sent a chill back up my spine, and I knew the cold wind of reality was hitting me again. Jesus, I prayed to myself, look out for my friend. I placed the note next to the statue, and tried to return the group around my table back into the fun-loving carefree bunch we'd been before the statue and note had arrived. It wasn't easy. And I didn't expect anybody to understand what I was feeling. That cold wind doesn't let you forget as quickly as you'd like.

As it turned out, I saw Billy again. As always, it was at the bar. He walked in one weekend night displaying that big toothy smile and snapping out a joke as glibly as usual. I never would have taken him for a sick man, no siree, never in a million years. And he would not have wanted me to think of him in that way, either.

I stuck out my hand, thanked him for the statue. I asked him how he felt, but it was rhetorical, of course, because I knew the answer. Even if I hadn't, it would have been revealed in his eyes first. They seemed weary still, and reflected the pain he was obviously experiencing inside the body that had lost so much weight from the days when he played as a New York Jet.

"The back is kicking up again," he said. "Doctors told me I've got to have chemotherapy. Otherwise, my chances could be bad. I don't think I can go through with it. I've had a couple of treatments already, and there's no way I can describe to you what it's

By ANTHONY MANCONI

My friend, Bob Giguere, is a barber with a sense of humor. He has a sign in the barber shop window that says, "hair cut while you wait."

My Aunt Maria from Wilmington drove her car up to a gasoline pump and waited until the attendant finally came out of the station. "Sonny," she said, "now I know what they did with the 'lead' that was taken out of the gas!"

That little bit of heaven, Ireland, is truly the land of saints, poets and scholars. In a recent St. Patrick's Day poster display I saw this beautiful Irish expression: "Come into my garden Mary, I want my roses to see you." Just marvelous!

I would like to explain to any new readers what this column is all about. Woodchips is a "fun column," intended for everyone to read whether you're an introvert, extrovert or even a confirmed grouch. Its purpose is to make our day brighter and our problems a little lighter. So let's put a little "fun" in our lives with a smile.

I remember when in my neighborhood many years ago most mothers would light candles when their daughters turned 16, praying they would marry soon. At age 17, a daily litany would start and continue without let-up. "Get married. Get married. What do you want to be, an old maid?" But with young men in the family, it was a lot different. When cousin Peter told his mother that he met a fine young lady and that he intended to marry her, she went into a temper tantrum. "What," she screamed, "You want to get married and leave me? What the heck do you want to get married for anyway? You're only 39 years old!"

My Uncle, John Shea of North Reading is over 80 years old. He is thinking seriously of marrying a young lady who is 24. The doctor told Uncle John that at his age it could be fatal. "I appreciate your advice and concern doctor, but I may marry her anyway, and, if she dies, she dies!"

Angela Cefali, of the Cambridgeport Bank in Winchester, told an artist that his account was "over drawn." He "brushed" that information aside saying, "A colorful person like himself isn't 'easily' frightened where money is concerned."

Kenny Binding went to an eye clinic last week. He opened the first door he saw and walked in, then said to a nurse combing her hair in front of a mirror: "I have to have my eyes examined." "I should say you do," exclaimed the nurse, "you're standing in the ladies room."

Folks, "time" cannot be "bought, borrowed or stolen." It can be "lost" however if we don't "spend" it today. If we keep postponing enough today's to be enjoyed tomorrow, we may end up with a trunk full of "yesterdays."

I make up most of the jokes, puns and quips, some are given to me by friends and others are borrowed. This chip is true. I was in an optician's office when he asked a beautiful young lady he was adjusting eye glasses for: "Mary are you married?" "None of your darn business," was her response. The handsome young man smiled and said, "Mary, I mean no offense, but you will walk out of here and I may never see you again." "I'll be wondering," he continued, "for years to come why I didn't have the courage to ask you if you were married."

Many years ago, Joey Aldo of Winchester and I were classmates in grammar school. We were a little late one morning so in order to save time we took a short cut through a field then we climbed over a fence where I tore a hole in my pants on the barbed wire. I didn't have a safety pin and Joey didn't have one either but I decided to go on to school anyway. Joey went on ahead and I finally got to school and dragged myself trying to hide my embarrassment. I almost got to my seat when Miss Sullivan shouted, "I see you're little behind this morning Anthony!" I sat down quickly then meekly said, "You wouldn't have Miss Sullivan if Joey had a safety pin!"

Sue Johnson, recent graduate of Reading High School, received 12 letters in sports, most of them in track and cross country running. Sue is the lovely daughter of Connie Johnson of Honeycomb in Wakefield. I never received any letters but my parents did. My teacher gave me one to give to my father when I was in the fifth grade. It said: "your son should have an encyclopedia." My father gave me his own note to return saying, "my son can walk to school the way I did!"

My nephew Dennis Tully is proficient in the 100 meter dash, but he somehow can't summon up the "go power" to walk out with the trash.

I am a carpenter with the US FDA lab in Winchester. About ten years ago a handsome lad was assigned to work with me. His name was Michael Varley of Winchester. He was a quiet, efficient and industrious young man. He later graduated from Dartmouth College. Needless to say, I am proud of Michael because he and many young men and women are the future of America. Folks, if they are all like Michael then I can truthfully say this country will forever be the greatest in the world!

My cousin, Rocco decided that he had enough so he filed papers to divorce his wife, Rosa. At the preliminary hearing the judge asked Rocco: "What grounds do you have?" "2 1/2 acres your honor." "Do you have a grudge?" "No, your honor, I have a 'carport.'" The judge was becoming exasperated but continued. "Does your wife Rosa beat you up?" "No," Rocco replied. "I get up an hour before she does." Unceremoniously banging the gavel, the judge said: "Tell me in your own words what is the principal reason for these proceedings?" "Your honor, two weeks ago Rosa told me she wanted to have her face 'lifted.' I told her who is stupid enough to 'steal' it. Since then she has been swearing at me in her sleep." Just then Rosa jumped up from her chair and shouted:

"Who the heck was sleeping?" The judge postponed the case and unfortunately Rocco went deep sea fishing a week later and was drowned, leaving his wife over a half a million dollars. I said to Rosa: "Not bad for a guy who couldn't read or write?" She smiled and replied "Yeah, and he couldn't swim either!"

Stoneham Business Fair June 14

the town in Stoneham.

"Obviously, we want to reinforce to our neighbors the broad scope of products and services available right here in town. Equally important, we want to provide the townspeople with the opportunity to learn who and not just what is available to them. The town's businesses are run by people with specific expertise in their field. They can and should be used as sources of advice and help, not just as product suppliers. The Fair will provide the opportunity to meet our existing and prospective customers personally, away from the normal business environment," explains Skelley, president of Stoneham Lumber Company.

In addition to Stoneham businesses, there has been considerable enthusiasm generated in nearby towns as well, with a number of businesses contracting for booth space.

"With the impact of today's mass media, we sometimes tend to overlook the businesses right around the corner. We hope the fair will underscore the Chamber's commitment to the town as a whole and not just its business community," contends Kim O'Neil, the fair's chairman.

The Business Fair will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the June 14 and admission is free. There will be a guest appearance by Miss Massachusetts and many businesses will be raffling off prizes, in addition to a color TV being awarded as a door prize. There is plenty of free parking available.

For further information, contact Kim O'Neil at 438-5000 or Bob Skelley at 438-1122.

Computer Day planned

Personal Computer Pioneers Day will be held at The Computer Museum on June 14 from 1 to 5 p.m. Early PC designers and enthusiasts will gather to discuss the origins and developments of personal computing. This event follows the Early Model Personal Computer Contest, sponsored by CW Communications and ComputerLand to discover early contributions to personal computing and broaden the Museum's personal computer collection. Over 320 entries were received from 13 countries around the world.

William Millard, founder of ComputerLand and of IMS Associates (developers of the 1976 IMSAI) will deliver the keynote speech. He is credited with originating the idea of the PC contest.

David Bunnell, publisher of PC World and MacWorld, will give an overview of the contest entries and judging process. Mr. Bunnell organized the first World Altair Computer Conference in Albuquerque, N.M. in 1976.

First-prize winner John Blankenbaker will talk about the Kenbak-1, which he designed in 1971. The Kenbak-1 is the earliest personal computer discovered in the contest. The 256 byte machine was visionary in that it was aimed at the educational market, though only 40 were sold. In comparison, over a million Apple II personal computers have been sold.

Thi Truong, president of Total Telematics Technology in Paris, will be arriving to discuss the French-built Micral, which he designed in 1973. While only 500 were sold, this machine is still in use in France.

In 1973, Don Lancaster developed the first, low cost system in which data and text appeared on a tv screen. The TVT-1 TV Typewriter, as it is known, is one of several prototype designs entered by this personal computer pioneer, who will discuss his inventions.

Ed Roberts, founder and president of MITS, will talk about his 1975 design, the Altair 8800. This computer gained fame by appearing on the January 1975 cover of Popular Electronics. Unlike the empty casing which was actually photographed for Popular Electronics, the mint condition specimen, entered in the contest by Robert Pond, is quite complete with peripherals and add-on boards. Constructed from a mail order kit, this computer was originally sold by MITS for $397. This was an amazingly low price, considering that the Intel 8080 chip by itself sold for $360.

A question and answer period will follow the speakers' presentations. A reception and tour of the contest entries with the winners and judges will conclude the day.

Raw Deal Short Takes

Raw Deal Starring Arnold Schwarzenegger, Kathryn Harrold, Darren McGavin, Sam Wanamaker. Directed by John Irvin. Produced by Martha Schumacher. Screenplay by Gary M. DeVore and Norman Wexler. Rated R (profanity, excessive violence).

There is no doubt about the genre of this flick. There are seven murders and a stylized chase scene before the credits even roll. While Raw Deal has problems, it does have a bit more texture and better direction than the usual gangster shoot-em-ups. This does not, however, lessen the fact that the kind of crowd this genre caters to is the hard-core, violence aficionados. They will not be disappointed.

That there is a decent plot and some fine acting doesn't cover up the fact that this is one of the bloodiest movies since Stanley Kubrick's heyday. The slowly dying criminals, spurting blood and lingering camera shots will make your palms sweat and your mouth dry.

Muscleman Arnold Schwarzenegger has toned down both his biceps and his accent for his role of a former FBI agent called in for a special job. He is more sophisticated and smooth than in his previous films, and shows a real sense for comedic timing. Maybe Conan has finally grown up.

The supporting cast includes such veterans as Ed Lauter and Darren McGavin. But it is Sam Wanamaker who is the most interesting as an impulsive, silver-haired mafioso. The man's face is like Silly Putty and he can talk with his expressions alone.

While director John Irvin has added enough touches to give the characters depth and the film some style, his portrayal of women is deplorable. If they're not drunken shrews they're scantily dressed. The one woman who has more than three lines, Kathryn Harrold, is little more than an extension of the men and gets to whisper, huskily, such trite as, "You're a real take-charge kind of guy." Yech.

The film also begins to lag about mid-way and Irvin should never have allowed the second ending, as it is disgustingly corny and unnecessary. However, most folks aren't going to care about the technicalities, because as far as entertainment goes, it ain't bad.

Short Takes

Dream Lover defies the basic concept of thrillers, because if you want to scare your audience, you have to keep them awake. Kristy McNichol portrays a woman who has trouble sleeping because of violent nightmares. She should have watched this flick, it would have put her right out. Rated R.

RAW DEAL ... Arnold Schwarzenegger stars as former FBI agent, Joseph P. Brenner, who infiltrates the Chicago mafia and destroys it from within "Raw Deal." A De Laurentiis Entertainment Group release.

Trouble in Mind is a melodramatic love story with a timeless atmosphere and elements of classic film noirs. This intriguing flick about an urban love triangle has an eclectic cast including Kris Kristofferson, Lori Singer and Divine, that campy transvestite, in her, ah his, first straight role. Rated R.

Letter to Brezhnev is an independent flick whose low budget is overridden by high ideals. A delightful story of an unemployed woman from Liverpool in love with a Soviet sailor proves that romance is more important than politics. Watch for the bleached blonde, Margi Clarke, a newcomer who is a cross between Madonna and Holly Golightly. Rated R.

Cobra is for those of you whose guilty pleasures include watching people get hacked to death, run over, blown up, incarcerated and shot. A Sylvester Stallone vehicle, he certainly dishes out the shocks, but when the body count hits 50 and the murderous motives of the villain aren't explained, it all gets too silly. Rated R.

Poltergeist II has a few decent jolts, but on a whole this ghostly tale of good versus evil pales next to its haunted predecessor. The refreshing humor and startling special effects are overshadowed by the preposterous plot and ragged ending. Rated R.

Three Men and a Cradle is a sweet, sometimes humorous romp about three bachelors and the wide-eyed baby they care for. While it is an amusing film, it boggles the mind that it won three Cesars (French Oscars). Maybe hilarity doesn't translate. Rated PG-13.

Top Gun has plenty going for it if you like Tom Cruise's muscular physique, Kelly McGillis' legs and the best stunt flying ever recorded. If you want a substantial plot or intelligent dialogue, look elsewhere. Rated PG.

Short Circuit is the fluff of which fantasies are made. The plot of a robot that comes to life is entertaining in an unassuming, airy fashion that may lack in originality, but makes up for it in execution. Rated PG.

Sweet Liberty will never be classified as high art, but it is a cute, little story about summer movie madness with a lot of laughs that never panders to the intelligence of the audience. Alan Alda has come through with a slightly irreverent, sarcastic and thoroughly entertaining look at a movie company that is trying to rewrite history. Rated PG.

Retired Men's Club is proud of its band

Exhibiting genuine pride in their own band, 275 members and guests of the Retired Men's Club of Wakefield gave a standing ovation to the band at the end of the annual spring concert on May 28. The band played marching and concert band music, symphony, theatre and jazz selections for the enjoyment of the club. Reflecting the diverse demographics of the parent club membership, the band boasts members from Wakefield, Melrose, Reading, Beverly, Lynnfield, Everett, Woburn, Stoneham, Saugus, Arlington, Lynn, West Roxbury and even Epping, New Hampshire. At age 91, Chet Card, one of the founding members in 1973, is director, and Joseph Leary and Ronald Downey are associate directors. A special treat was the first public playing of a new song, "The Wakefield Retired Men's Club March", written and arranged by Charles Rodriguez, a member of the band.

During the regular meeting preceding the concert, the club welcomed the following visitors: John J. Greeley of Lynnfield, William A. Hallam and George H. Kierstead both of Wakefield, Fred McMahon of Burlington, and Antonio T. Sateriale and Joseph W. Sentance, Jr. both of Stoneham. They also welcomed five new members: Robert Baggeroer and John H. Tyler of Lynnfield, Helge D. Peterson of Lynn, Joseph Lupo of Stoneham and Ralph P. McDonald of Middleton.

A moment of silence was observed to recognize the passing of Clyde Crozier (1919-1986). Twenty-eight birthdays were recognized and the list read of those persons on the sick list. It is hoped these men will be rejoining with the members soon, as did five others who were in attendance after having been ill for a number of weeks. The door prize was won by Albert E. Slade.

The Camera Club announced that it will have its final meeting until September on June 3 at 9 a.m. at the First Parish Congregational Church; ladies are invited to this meeting. Ms. Marion Rich, a repeat guest by popular demand, will give a talk and slide presentation on Vermont. The Travel Club will have its final meeting of the season on June 19 at 9:30 a.m. at the church; ladies are welcome. Slides will be shown from the recent club-sponsored trip to the Pennsylvania Amish country. Upcoming trips are being well supported. The mackerel fishing trip on June 10 has 27 people signed up so far; the New York Radio City tour in December is full at 46 and a waiting list has been started; 48 men have signed for the Red Sox-Milwaukee game on June 14; and the Bermuda trip in November already has approximately 70 men and women who have agreed to go, and there is room for more. Two summer day trips will be announced at future meetings.

At the next meeting on June 11, Professor Joseph Kopycinski of the University of Lowell will give what promises to be an interesting and enlightening lecture and slide show on the history of the Middlesex Canal. And on June 25, Harold Armistead of Middleton, a member, will talk on the interesting subject of "History of the Old Moving Picture Industry."

The Retired Men's Club of Wakefield continues its meetings during the summer months even though some of the special interest clubs do not. All retired men in the commuting area of Wakefield are invited to visit the club on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month at the First Parish Congregational Church in Wakefield. Donuts and coffee are served at 9 a.m. and the program begins at 9:30. There is no cost and no special invitation or sponsor is needed. Come on down!

Creative achievements seminar

To help you get ready for your next job or promotion, Widening Horizons is sponsoring the program: Zingers — How To Create Achievements From Ordinary Experiences on Thursday, June 19 at 10 a.m.

Zingers are created by taking ordinary experiences such as routine projects, situations, hobbies and skills and turning them into achievements. They can be used on resumes, applications, proposals for grants, contracts or even for social purposes. Program speakers, Joanna Henderson, Administrator and faculty member at Babson College, and Betty Lou Marple, Asst. Dean at Harvard University School of Design, are co-authors of the upcoming book, Zingers: Create Achievements From Ordinary Experiences. Their talk will focus on ways to create zingers, why they are useful, how they can be written or discussed and how others have designed and used them.

Call 369-1626 for information and registration. The program with a registration fee of $15 will be held in the Career Resource Room at Widening Horizons, a career development center at 120 Meriam Road, Concord.

Business plays fair

The Stoneham Chamber of Commerce will host a Business Fair on Saturday, June 14 at the Stoneham Arena on Montvale Ave. and Rt. 93. There will be over forty businesses that will be exhibiting their products and services with key personnel available to answer questions from prospective customers.

The main thrust of the event is to encourage and foster business to business relationships while ensuring that local and surrounding area residents are aware of the diverse array of products and services available in Stoneham. In addition to Stoneham businesses, there will be exhibitors from other nearby towns as well.

The Business Fair will run from 10 AM to 4 PM on the

THE GREAT AMERICAN SPAGHETTI SAUCE SEARCH

Spaghetti Sauce search

A nationwide search to find those previously guarded, taste-tested and time-honored spaghetti sauce recipes is in full swing. According to the National Pasta Association, sponsor the Great American Spaghetti Sauce Search, the beauty of American spaghetti sauce is that no two recipes are the same. In fact, very few people make it the same way twice, so it's likely that there are literally tens of thousands of spaghetti sauce recipes across the country, known only to their creators.

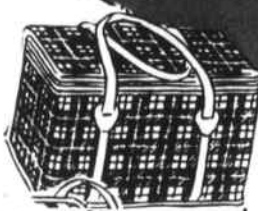

Variety is the spice of life, but all spaghetti sauces don't have to contain 56 ingredients to be award-winning — some of the best recipes are both simple and delicious.

For those who prefer a less traditional approach, in addition to the original tomato and meat sauce, the Great American Spaghetti Sauce welcomes entries that contain vegetables, fish, lean meats, herbs, nuts, cheeses and any other tried and true ingredients.

To enter the competition, send your favorite spaghetti sauce recipe to Spaghetti Sauce Search, Box 25496, Washington, D.C. 20007. To join the Pasta Lover's Club, send $5 to Pasta Lover's Club at the same address.

Boston Rail Convention

A joint national convention of three organizations made up of railroad historians, fans and modelers will make Boston the temporary railroad capital of the United States July 21 to 27. A busy schedule of events, seminars and special rail and transit excursions is planned. Most events are designed to attract members of the general public as well as convention-goers. The convention, "Minuteman '86", involves the National Model Railroad Association, the National Railway Historical Society and the Railroad Enthusiasts. All are national organizations that normally maintain separate memberships, interests and activities. The first-ever joint gathering is expected to bring as many as three thousand railroad fans and modelers to the Sheraton-Boston complex at Prudential Center and to numerous peripheral locations.

Among activities planned are daily rail excursions over mainline and branch routes, MBTA lines and museum lines in Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Connecticut. Also scheduled are an international railway art show, a display of full-size railroad locomotives and cars, operating model railroad layouts, historical and hobby exhibits, seminars and clinics.

COMING ATTRACTIONS realizes that events alone will not put you in a cheerful Summer mood, you need food as well. From business fairs, to a rail convention, to pasta, we want you to enjoy it all. If you can contribute to this listing of summer events of interest to all, write, care of this local newspaper, and tell us all about it. We welcome any and all submittals.
